Geographer creates supercounty

by JEFF TRIMBLE

Geographer G. Etzel Pearcy would like to redraw the map of Cook County.

But instead of following a locally popular notion and creating new, smaller counties, the California geographer would enlarge the county to six times its present size.

Pearcy would like to consolidate 10 Northeastern Illinois counties into a "supercounty" called Chicago. He believes nationwide county consolidation could save as much as $12 billion yearly.

To support this claim, Pearcy has written a book in which he combines the nation's 3,080 counties into 424 supercounties.

"SUPERCOUNTIES, USA" details the shortcomings of the present county system and includes state maps on which new supercounties are drawn.

The supercounty of Chicago would include the present counties of Boone, Cook, DeKalb, DuPage, Grundy, Kane, Kendall, Lake, McHenry and Will. The supercounty area would be 5,390 square miles with a population of 7.2 million persons.

Cook County covers 954 square miles and has 5.5 million inhabitants.

Pearcy said in a recent interview there is a need for regional forms of government, especially between the present county level and state government.

USING ILLINOIS as an example, Pearcy divided the state's 102 counties into 13 supercounties. Officials in state agencies then would deal with 13 consolidated departments, instead of needing 102 channels of communication, Pearcy said.

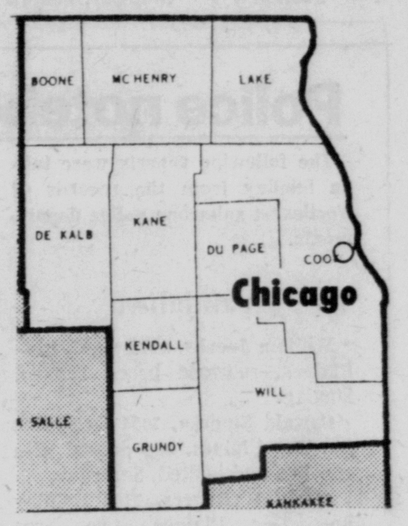

Pearcy said the present system is "like having an army with no middle level officers," between the lower ranks (cities and counties) and the generals (state and federal governments).

Statistics show that one out of every 45 Americans is employed by counties, and that county expenditures total more than $50 billion each year. In "Supercounties, USA" Pearcy uses these figures to illustrate that the county system is "bottom heavy."

Through increased use of computer systems that would be affordable to supercounties, Pearcy says much of the waste could be eliminated. Duplicate county programs could be combined, reducing the need for administrative personnel.

THE "SUPERCOUNTY capital," or regional center as Pearcy calls it, usually would be the largest centrally

Tax rebels firm in showdown

by DEBBE JONAK

The day of the Cook County tax showdown has arrived.

On one side are members of the taxpayers revolt in the Northwest and North suburbs who say they'll stand firm and meet today's deadline for filing 1976 property taxes with unpaid bills in hand, not in the mail box. On the other side is Cook County, which stands ready to collect a one per cent a month penalty for anyone who refuses to pay their taxes with the final power of selling the offender's property in November if taxes are unpaid.

But some members of the taxpayers forces aren't flinching.

"We aren't going to pay the taxes, at least for the next two months," Elaine Salzmann said Sunday of the $783 bill on her bungalow at 1821 N. Verde St., Wheeling Township. That bill was up more than $200 from last year's bill of $533.

"IT GOES against me not to pay bills," she said. "But it's sort of a revolt type thing, really."

Who will emerge as victor in the confrontation depends on who carries the bigger guns: Cook County with its penalizing powers or the taxpayers with their voting clout.

At least 1,500 persons attending local taxpayer protest meetings have pledged not to pay their taxes by the deadline today. The treasurer's office last week said it had collected $40 million less in taxes than it had by the same time last year.

Sparking the revolt was the quadrennial reassessment, which caused large increases in property tax bills. In some cases the bills doubled or tripled.

The large increases were partially the result of a new system of reassessment based on the market value of the property, which is affected greatly by inflation.

THE REBELLING taxpayers are demanding the assessor's office outlaw that method of assessment, place a temporary freeze on all assessment increases and establish a uniform, countywide tax rate.

They also are asking for a three-month extension for payment of their tax bills.

Hardest hit by the reassessment were Wheeling and Palatine.

John Keeley, who lives on 1.25 acres at Wolf and Dundee roads, Wheeling, found his tax bill tripled from $1,300 to $3,800.

Josephine Kendzie of Palatine, who owns an undeveloped 1.3-acre lot at Rand and Hicks roads, found her bill jumped 10 times, from $403 to $4,747.

BOTH SAID Sunday they intend on sticking to their pledge not to pay property taxes for at least two more months.

"Once you pay it, you don't get it back, honey," Mrs. Kendzie said. "And where do I have $4,700 to pay? I don't even own a home. It's ridiculous."

"I definitely feel people will hold out," Keeley said, reiterating his intention to do so. "I think there are several thousand of us."

Many are forced to hold out, because they could not raise the money in time, he said. Taxpayers received their bills about one month ago.

"We're hoping for at least 10,000 (strikers) in the first week," said James Tobin, organizer of the tax protest and president of the National

Assessor's tax bill only inches up

by BILL HILL

The man who for the past four weeks has spent all of his time listening to residents' complaints about their tax bills, isn't sure why his own taxes increased less than his neighbors.

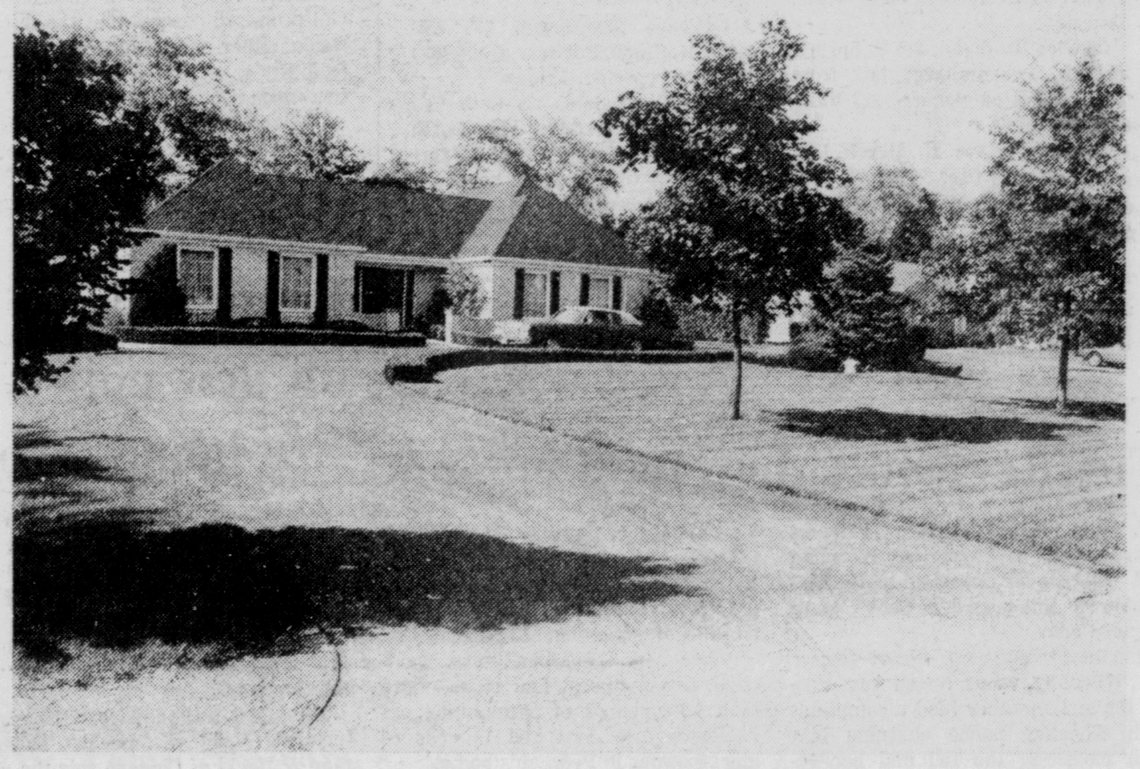

Marshall Theroux, Wheeling Township assessor, can explain why his tax bill only increased 1 per cent from last year to this year. "It's because my property was reassessed in 1973 when I put in air conditioning," he said.

But Theroux said he isn't sure why his assessed valuation for 1976 is only 7.3 per cent higher than it was after the last quadrennial reassessment in 1972, while the assessments for most of his neighbors went up more than 20 per cent during that four-year period.

THEROUX, it should be pointed out, has nothing to do with deciding assessments. It also is unlikely that such a staunch Republican would get special consideration from the Democratic-run county assessor's office.

The assessors have set Theroux's assessed valuation for his three-bed-

IT IS UNLIKELY that Arlington Heights homeowners living on the south side of E. Orchard Street are complaining about their tax bills this summer. For most of them, their assessed valuations dropped. In the case of this house at 419 E. Orchard St., the new assessments indicate its value has dropped from $85,981 in 1972 to $78,252 in 1976. As the township assessor put it: "Somebody blew it."

Scarsdale assessments seem a little 'messed up'

by BILL HILL

Quadrennial reassessments conducted last year in Wheeling and Palatine townships caused large increases in most property tax bills issued this summer, but the reassessments were very kind to one exclusive area of Arlington Heights, where land and home assessments dropped dramatically.

A study by The Herald of assessments in Scarsdale Estates, a heavily-shaded area southeast of downtown Arlington Heights where large brick ranch houses are set on 100 by 200 foot lots, shows that land assessments there dropped an average of 15 per cent since the last quadrennial assessment in 1972.

Also, in a five-block stretch on E. Orchard Street in Scarsdale Estates, the assessments for huge ranch houses with spacious front lawns dropped by as much as 59 per cent. On the average, the assessments for the 12 homes on the south side of E. Orchard Street dropped 19.9 per cent.

	Average lot size	1972 land assessment	1976 land assessment	% change
Scarsdale	50x132	1,271	1,728	±36%
Park Manor	50x132	1,017	1,728	±70%
Scarsdale Est.	100x190	2,850	2,422	-15%

THE TOTAL assessments for properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street dropped, on the average, about 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop and the county's change this year making assessments 17 per cent of the market value, instead of 22 per cent as in 1972, the fair market values of four properties on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent on the average. The market values of the other eight properties there increased only 19.6 per cent, on the average.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310 — a 5.5 per cent difference.

A survey in April of area real estate appraisers set the value of homes in the Scarsdale and Scarsdale Estates areas at between

Jump of 27% projected in property tax next year

The property tax rate for the Village of Arlington Heights will increase a projected 27 per cent next year.

The tax levy ordinance before the village board today would increase the village's share of the tax rate to approximately, $1.34 per $100 of assessed valuation, up from $1.05 the past year.

The 1977-78 tax rate estimate is based on the need to raise $5.1 million. It means a homeowner with property valued at $10,000 will pay $134 in taxes for services provided by the village.

THE HIGHER tax rate will be reflected in tax bills received by property owners in August 1978.

The actual tax rate will not be known until the total assessed valuation of property in the village is determined by the Cook County assessor's office. Kenneth Bonder, village finance director, has estimated the village's total assessed valuation will increase only 2 per cent, from $372 million to $380 million.

The bulk of the increase in the 1977-78 tax rate is due to the issuance of $6 million worth of flood control bonds. Increased pension costs for police, fire and other village workers and the operation of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library account for most of the other rate increase.

The levy for general operations of the village will remain virtually the same, due in part to a projected increase in tax revenue from Arlington Park Race Track.

ARLINGTON PARK officials have agreed to pay an additional $200,000 liquor license fee in return for the village's support of the race track's application for night harness racing dates. Also, the extra racing is expected to raise an additional $100,000 for the village through the 10-cents-per person admission tax.

Rangers' drug raid nets 38

by DANN GIRE

A special task force of Cook County Forest Preserve rangers launched a major crackdown in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve near Elk Grove Village Sunday, arresting at least 38 persons on drug-related charges.

The task force of about 20 rangers went into the forest preserve at 11 a.m. Sunday "really cracking down on the area," Ranger Chief Richard Sloan said.

An official tally of those arrested and their names was being compiled Sunday night and was unavailable from county ranger officials.

Sloan said he expects the number of arrests to double before the tally is completed.

"WE HAVE ARRESTS coming in from all tactical units and we expect to have quite a high number of arrests," Sloan said.

The dragnet comes two weeks after a melee July 31 in which 20 persons attacked a larger group with baseball bats, chains, knives and BB guns in Busse Woods at the forest preserve. Sources said the melee was for control of drug traffic in the woods. More than 100 persons were hurt in the brawl.

By Sunday afternoon, rangers with help from the Cook County Sheriff's Police and the Elk Grrove Village police made an estimated 38 drug arrests, 27 arrests for speeding and two arrests for illegal parking.

One man, tentatively identified as Sam Davis, 43, of Elgin, was arrested for possessing marijuana and carrying a loaded .38 caliber revolver in the preserve, rangers said.

Other arrests were both felony and misdemeanor possession of marijuana, and felony possession of hypodermic syringes, amphetamines and LSD.

THE RANGER BLITZ, which started Saturday, will continue "until we've dried this thing up," Sloan said. "These kids are going to get wise sooner or later that we're going to clean them out of the area."

Sloan would not comment on how long the force will stay on to rid the forest preserve of persons selling and using drugs or persons loitering in the woods.

"We really put the heat on them" Sloan said of these arrested Sunday. "We worked very hard all Sunday to clear the area."

Sloan said all persons charged with felony counts were taken to the Cook County Sheriff's headquarters in Maywood today.

The near riot in the Busse Woods area late last month triggered concern for safety of preserve patrons by law enforcement and government officials.

HARRY JENKINS, Elk Grove Village police chief, said he is concerned that growing crime in the preserve may filter into the village which surrounds Busse Woods.

The melee caused Cook County Comr. Carl Hansen to call on forest preserve officials to find out about crime in the preserve and to find a way to prevent future incidents.

The last major crackdown in the area was made by the tactical force of the Cook County Rangers over several weeks last fall when an estimated 380 arrests were made for drug, vehicle, firearms violations.

Dist. 21 officials to try kids' path

by DIANE GRANAT

Wheeling Township Dist. 21 Board of Education members will be walking while Tarkington School parents are talking about the safety of a gravel path that children use to get from three Wheeling housing developments to the school.

Concerned about construction traffic near the walkway leading to the school, 310 Scott St., Wheeling, the Tarkington PTA has asked Dist. 21 to provide free busing for about 230 children attending the school from the Tahoe Village, Mallard Lake and Lakeside Villa developments.

Dist. 21 Board members have decided to hike along the path to get first-hand look at the situation before deciding whether it is dangerous enough to merit free bus service, Board Pres. Elaine Bond said.

WHILE THE board members view the path, the Tarkington PTA will survey parents from the three complexes to find out if the majority think the walkway is unsafe and, if so, what provisions should be made, said Adrianne Rotfeld, PTA spokeswoman.

Mrs. Rotfeld said the survey will be conducted Thursday during registration at Tarkington.

The 6-foot wide gravel path to Tarkington was installed by Dist. 21 two years ago under protest by parents in the area.

The parents argued that the route to the walkway was dangerous because children had to walk in streets to it and that the path would go through a field which they said was infested with rats and mosquitos.

WHEN THE path was constructed Gill promised parents that the district would either move and fence in the walkway or close it if future construction made it unsafe for children.

It was the resumption of construction in Mallard Lake and the southwest portion of Tahoe which led Tarkington parents to renew their opposition to the walkway at a board meeting Thursday.

"The streets to get to the path are blocked off by heavy construction vehicles and they (children) cannot get to school safely," Mrs. Rotfeld said Friday. She said the presence of construction vehicles in Lakeside Villa also led the PTA to ask for busing for students from that complex.

Gill said the district's vow to remove or change the path if construction resumed did not apply to the current areas of building. Construction in the area (under contention two years ago) will not begin again for another year, he said.

GILL SAID work near Tahoe Circle Drive, however, may cause problems and the district "will have to do something to reroute" the children. One solution, he said, would be to assign adult crossing guards to the area around the path.

Although Mrs. Bond said the construction in Mallard Lake and south Tahoe has created a mess, she said the price of bus service "gets to be exorbitant." She said it would cost Dist. 21 between $25,000 and $30,000 to provide free busing to the children there in the coming school year.

Mrs. Rotfeld said the Tarkington PTA Board originally thought Dist. 21 could receive state reimbursement for the cost of the busing if the route was declared hazardous.

Friday, after learning that the state does not pay for the transportation of children who live less than 1.5 miles from school even though they take hazardous routes, Mrs. Rotfeld said the parents might settle for paid adult patrols to assist children walking to school.

Tuesday court date for Penman

A man accused of taking indecent liberties with a 12-year-old Wheeling girl will appear Tuesday in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Ronald Penman, 28, of 387 Sunset Ln., Wheeling, was arrested Aug. 4 after the girl's mother filed a complaint with Wheeling police charging him with molesting the firl and her 10-year-old sister. However, in a preliminary hearing Aug. 5 before Judge Brian Crowe, Penman was charged only with assaulting the older girl, and illegal possession of fire arms.

Police said they found nine handguns, two shotguns, four rifles, more than 3,000 rounds of ammunition, an explosive fuse cord and 15 cans of black powder in Penman's home.

Final decision on new police, fire home seen

A decision whether to proceed with final architectural plans for a new police and fire building is expected to be made today by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The latest estimate from the architectural firm of Loebl, Schlossman & Hackl of Chicago sets the cost of the building at $2,525,000. However, plans for a 10-car parking garage and a bridge to connect the new building with the municipal building will be bid as options and would mean a reduction in cost of about $240,000.

VILLAGE TRUSTEE Frank Palmatier last week said that bids for the building probably will be let in December with construction expected to start in the spring.

The proposed site for the building, which would house the Arlington Heights Police Dept. and headquarters for the fire department, is immediately east of the municipal building on Sigwalt Street.

The village board is expected to give Loebl, Schlossman & Hackl the go-ahead to prepare final plans for the building since $200,000 already has been allocated for the designs. When that expense was approved in May two village trustees, Ralph Clarbour and Madeline Schroeder, voted against it.

Village Mgr. L.A. Hanson has suggested paying for the new building with $2.4 million the village will receive in federal revenue sharing funds before that program ends in October 1980.

'Lucky Seven' could make Guercios lottery winners

by MARSHA S. BOSLEY

Roberta Guercio won't go near a lottery ticket.

Her husband, Carl, is just the opposite. He likes to play the odds. Their son, Glenn, is indifferent toward it all and, like other 11-year-old boys, is more interested in minibikes and baseball.

This year, however, Glenn has become enmeshed in the game of chance. The sixth grader at Indian Grove Elementary School, Mount Prospect, is one of 20 finalists eligible for a grand prize of $1 million in the Illinois State Lottery "Great Moments" drawing this week in Springfield.

AN ARLINGTON Heights man also has qualified to win $1 million dollars in the state lottery "Bonanza" drawing. However, Chester Poplonski was reluctant to talk about his chances in that drawing and said, "It is a personal matter."

As the Guercios, 1818 Tano Ln., Mount Prospect, prepare to embark on a two-day trip to the state capital, they are as excited as the day they learned Glenn had qualified for the fortune.

"We didn't even know about it," said Mrs. Guercio, a home art representative for Carlyle Imports, Wheeling. "I was sound asleep on Friday, the morning of July 29 when a friend of ours called and said she had read it in a Chicago newspaper. I couldn't believe it. When Carl got home from work and we told him about it he threw his hat on the couch, his coat on the floor and did a dance around the living room."

Glenn never dreamed he would be the center of so much excitement but he got involved because his father wanted to "spread the wealth around a little bit."

Of the nearly 250 "Winning Moments" lottery tickets Guercio had accumulated between last December and February, seven matched the one pulled in a preliminary drawing last month. It was a picture of the U.S. Constitution.

"I SENT FOUR in my name, one in my wife's name and one in each of the boy's (Glenn and his brother Gary, 12) names," Guercio said. "And Glenn's was picked. "We got it OK'd. I signed an application saying I was his legal guardian."

The Guercios, as finalists, already have been guaranteed $1,500. In addition to the $1 million grand prize a $50,000 second prize. $25,000 third prize and seven $5,000 prizes will be awarded at the state fair drawing. There will be 10 winners. And their chances are good.

"I've never been this close to a million dollars," said Guercio, a carpenter and foreman for Albin Anderson, an Arlington Heights general contracting firm. "I feel I'm pretty lucky. We sent in seven tickets. I'm 47 years old. The year is 1977. It was a full house. The first drawing was in the seventh month on the 29th, two from nine is seven. And Gary's CB handle is 'Lucky Seven.' "

Mrs. Guercio is optimistic, but also superstitious. "If I touch one of those (tickets), it will lose," she said. "I'm just an unlucky person. I won't buy them. I won't touch them. I think it's kind of a mental attitude."

THE FAMILY already has figured out what to do with the money if they win. And because Glenn's name was on the ticket, Mrs. Guercio said, "he'll get what he wants."

First on Glenn's list is a new minicycle and one for his brother. Then, he said, he would settle for a boat so the family can sail on the lake across the street from the Barrington home they are moving to later this year.

Guercio said Glenn would definitely get the bike but, "First of all, the boys get the money put aside for college."

The man of the house also is talking about buying an airplane for his family. He has a pilot's license and currently is in the Marine Air Reserve at the Glenview Naval Air Base.

For now the Guercios will just have to wish hard for their dream to come true Thursday at the state fair. A million dollars would be nice but Glenn's hopes are not as high as his father's. "I think we're going to win $5,000," he said. "We have seven chances for that. Only one person is going to win a million."

WITH SOME LUCK, Mount Prospect residents Carl Guercio and his son, Glenn, 11, will be $1 million richer next week after the final drawing in Illinois' "Winning Moments" Lottery. Glenn qualified last month as one of 20 finalists when his father sent in a winning ticket bearing his name.

Lance faces stock woes with bank on margin list

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move that could complicate the sale of Budget Director Bert Lance's stock in the National Bank of Georgia, the Federal Reserve Board Sunday placed the bank on a margin list limiting the loan value of its stocks.

The action also could have an impact on the $3.4 million loan Lance got seven months ago from the First National Bank of Chicago.

When the Federal Reserve Board puts a bank on the margin list, that means the bank's stock, when used as collateral, is limited to 50 per cent of its market value.

When a bank is not on the margin list, no limit is placed on the value of the stock for collateral purposes.

LANCE, FORMER president of the Georgia bank, has said he used 200,000 shares of its stock and other unidentified assets as collateral to secure the loan from the Chicago bank.

Now he is trying to sell his shares in the Georgia bank, and under an agreement with the Senate Banking Committee which confirmed him as budget director, must do so by year's end unless he gets an extension.

Two potential buyers have expressed an interest in Lance's stock, but no final agreement has been reached.

G. K. Rakes, a banking specialist at the University of Virginia, said now that the Georgia bank is on the Federal Reserve's margin list, there will be a "significant effect on the sale of the stock" because the Federal Reserve will "require a purchaser to have a substantial amount of cash in order to buy Lance's interest" in the bank.

Before the margin requirement was put into effect, a buyer could have used his own credit rating for a maximum loan to buy Lance's stock. But under the margin listing, anyone who buys the stock must put up 50 per cent of the asking price in cash, Rakes said.

A BROKERAGE SOURCE also said the new listing would complicate the sale, because any buyer would have to meet the asking price by mortgaging other assets. But he said the listing actually could help the sale because once a bank is on the margin list, that indicates its stock is becoming more prominent.

Lance owns more than 20 per cent of the Georgia bank's stock and although no total dollar value has been put on his shares, Lance's trustee has said it will be substantially above the current market value price of $12 a share and probably in the $17 range which Lance originally paid for it.

Rakes said Lance could have problems now if he tries to renegotiate the Chicago loan because once the Georgia bank is on the Federal Reserve's margin list, the value of the stock he offered as collateral would be depreciated.

Tollway water pipeline best: study

by LYNN ASINOF

A $60.6 million pipeline along the Northwest Tollway is the best way to bring Lake Michigan water to the Northwest suburbs, according to a consultant'sreport.

The report, presented to the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, said the pipeline should be large enough to accommodate the future water needs of four towns that do not have water allocations — Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Hanover Park and Streamwood.

To date, the eight towns that have received Lake Michigan water allocations have no plans to oversize their proposed system for future water needs.

INSTEAD, they have argued over the source of the water. Some advocate purchase from the City of Chicago while others want to go east for lake water.

The Keifer report, however, maintains it will be cheapest to bring water from the City of Chicago through a connection near O'Hare Airport.

The consultants say oversizing the system will not affect the long term cost of water to customers, which is expected to remain stable at between $1 and $1.50 per thousand gallons. It will add $12 million to the construction costs, putting a financial strain on the towns when they begin the project.

The report calls for construction of the pipeline in three phases. The first would bring water to the eight towns with water allocations effective in 1980 — Arlington Heights, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove and Palatine.

ESTIMATED TO cost $52 million, the first phase would lay the backbone of the system. Major transmission lines would run along the Northwest Tollway from the proposed storage reservoir near O'Hare Airport to the Hoffman Estates access point near Barrington Road.

Secondary lines would run along Northwest Highway, Mount Prospect, Wilke and Ill. Rte. 53 Frontage roads.

Expansion of the system in 1985, estimated to cost $5.3 million, would provide service to Wheeling and Prospect Heights. Transmission lines would be extended along Mount Prospect, Rand and Elmhurst roads.

The final expansion of the system, estimated to cost $3 million, would add Hanover Park and Streamwood.

The report makes no recommendations on the financing or organization of the project, but says towns added to the system during expansions could be charged "access fees" to defray the cost of oversizing the pipes.

A SEPARATE report by Chapman and Cutler, prepared at NIPC's request, discusses possible methods of financing and organization. That report, however, made no recommendations, saying there are a variety of approaches and no obvious solutions.

The Keifer proposal, which has not yet been accpepted by NIPC, says the City of Chicago may not have sufficient capacity in its Mayfair Station to handle pumping requirements projected for the year 2010.

Both the Keifer and the Chapman and Cutler reports are being made available to area towns to help in their water planning.

Walter Pigeon in stable condition after surgery

• Actor Walter Pidgeon was reported in stable condition in the intensive care unit at St. John's Hospital in Santa Monica, Calif., Sunday where he underwent surgery for a blood clot in his brain Saturday. Pidgeon, 78, a veteran of more than 100 motion pictures in a career spanning more than 50 years, entered the hospital Aug. 4. He was nominated twice for the Academy Award as best actor, for "Mrs. Miniver" in 1942 and for "Madame Curie" in 1943. He never won the Oscar. His last major role was as an aging pickpocket in "Harry in Your Pocket" in 1973. He and his second wife, the former Ruth Walker, live in Bel Air.

• King Tut is still packing them in. More than 2,500 persons were lined up outside the Field Museum by 3 a.m. Sunday, the second to the last day the exhibit will be in Chicago. Museum officials estimate that about 1.4 million persons have visited the King Tut exhibit since it opened April 15.

• Film-makers have moved from nostalgia to revival, first with a new "Superman" movie, followed by announcement of a projected "Lassie" film and now a full-length feature on "The Lone Ranger." The Wrather Corp. will produce "The Lone Ranger," which began as a radio show in 1933 and ran until 1954 and later became a television series of 221 half-hour episodes. The masked man and his Indian sidekick, Tonto, also were the heroes of two motion picture serials in 1938 and 1939. In 1955 and 1957, producer Jack Wrather made two Lone Ranger feature films starring Clayton Moore and Jay Silverheels.

• The motion picture academy will produce "Movies Go To War," a two-hour television documentary examining the treatment of World War II by Hollywood's film industry.

• Mike Connors, who starred for eight years in the "Mannix" television series, will head the cast of a two-hour "Police Story" episode. Connors will play a cop who does not believe he is worthy of the Medal of Valor awarded him for a shoot-out in which his partner was killed.

• Lucille Ball returns to her famous "Lucy" character for her next TV special. "I figured I was too old to play Lucy any more," Miss Ball said. "But that's what the public wants me to do."

• Bette Davis and Henry Winkler, star of "Happy Days," starred in the first of the new "Laugh-In" shows.

• It's reported that Lee Majors made a $6 million deal with Universal to return to his "Six Million Dollar Man" series.

No comment yet on Chip-Caron split

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chip Carter and his wife Caron, who reportedly have been having marital problems, went to church together Sunday along with their six-month-old son, James Earl Carter IV.

Chip, 27, and Caron, 26, entered the First Baptist Church through a side door after President and Mrs. Carter, who attended Bible class earlier, had arrived.

The four sat in the same pew and Chip put his arm around the back of the seat were Caron sat. They held a hymn book together and smiled, and held hands as they left the church after services.

WHITE HOUSE sources said Saturday the couple, married in 1973, was separating for a time because of marriage problems.

Both the First Lady's Press Sec. Mary Hoyt and Carter's Press Sec. Jody Powell have refused to confirm or deny the reports.

Nor would either say whether Chip was still living in the White House, although Deputy Press Sec. Rex Granum said it was "absolutely untrue" that Carter had asked Chip to leave.

Chip and Caron did not return to the White House in the presidential motorcade.

Mrs. Hoyt said Chip will go to Plains, Ga. early this week to "help out" with the family's peanut business, and Caron and the baby will remain at the White House.

Asked if the couple is having problems, she said, "It's a private matter. Draw your own conclusions."

IN ANOTHER development, the Rev. Clennon King, a black minister from Albany, Ga., applied for membership in the First Baptist Church Sunday. His application will be considered by membership committee.

King, whose application for admission to the Plains Baptist Church was partly responsible for a split among members this year, also attended Bible class, sitting two rows behind Carter and interrupting the lesson.

Liberian Ambassador Francis Dennis conducted the session and King broke in saying, "I want to ask why our President, whom we all love, voted against me (for membership) in his church in Georgia . . . and last Sunday he blessed the split in the church. Why won't he answer me?"

Bomb threats empty LaGuardia

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bomb threats forced LaGuardia Airport to divert two flights, delay more than a dozen others and send thousands of weekend travelers fleeing into the afternoon rain.

Port Authority police began evacuating the busy main terminal after an anonymous male telephone caller warned that five bombs would go off at noon CDT. New York City police received a similar call.

When the deadline passed without incident, airline employes and passengers were allowed to reenter and planes were given clearance to land at the Queens airport.

"WE SEARCHED all of the public areas and found no bombs," a Port Authority spokesman said.

For more than an hour, 15 planes were put into holding patterns while bomb specialists combed the terminal. Two flights had to be diverted to Newark Airport, authorities said.

Thousands of travelers waited patiently outside in the steady rain and in a parking garage across the street from the main terminal while the search was made.

Many of the evacuees returned to the terminal only to discover their flights had been canceled. Passengers trying to recover luggage left during the evacuation were met with confusion as thousands scrambled to claim their bags.

"THIS IS MY first flight," a 60-year-old woman from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., said. "They don't do this all the time, do they?"

Officials said the first phone threat was made at 8:30 a.m. and police immediately began an extensive search of the terminal.

The search turned up nothing, but authorities decided to evacuate the building before the noon deadline.

"We took the calls seriously because of the recent bombings, and because the call sounded serious," a police spokesman said.

Free immunizations set at Conant

by ANNA MADRZYK

The Cook County Department of Public Health is offering a free mass immunization clinic from 2 to 7 p.m. Friday in Conant High School, 700 E. Cougar Tr. (off Higgins Road), Hoffman Estates.

It's especially important for immunizations to be given before a child enters or returns to school in the fall because of the increased exposure to other children, health department Medical Director Dr. John B. Hall said.

Suburban Cook County had a measles epidemic from November 1976 to May 1977 and the northern part of the county was hard hit. Nearly 300 cases were reported during that time period.

A STUDY BY the public health department showed 62 per cent of these cases were in high school with the highest incidence in 11-and 12-year-olds.

The reason is improper immunization or lack of immunization among older school-age children, Dr. Hall said.

He recommends any child who has not been vaccinated, was vaccinated before the age of 15 months or received the killed type of measles vaccine generally used before 1969 be immunized.

The free immunizations will be offered for both regular and German measles (rubella), polio, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough (pertussis).

U.S. Center for Disease Control figures show a national drop in immunizations levels from 84 per cent in 1963 to about 65 per cent at present. National estimates are that 20 million of the nation's 52 million children under age 15 are not adequately immunized.

THE REGULAR or red measles result in a complication such as an ear or sinus infection or pneumonia in one out of 12 cases, according to the county health department. In one out of 1,000 cases, a child may develop encephalitis, or brain inflammation, which can lead to permanent disability or death.

During the recent epidemic, forty of every 1,000 cases required hospitalization, the health department reported.

Other common childhood diseases may also have serious complications.

The violent coughing spells from whooping cough can cause bleeding into the brain, skin and eyes, resulting in blindness.

GERMAN MEASLES (rubella) is a mile disease in itself, but can be severely damaging to the fetus during the first three months of pregnancy. Malformation in the infant, brain damage, and hearing, vision and heart defects can result. Immunization of schoolchildren may help prevent the spread of this disease.

The Department of Public Health is trying to bring the importance of enforcing immunization requirements to the attention of school officials, Dr. Hall said.

State law requires immunizations for measles, polio, diptheria, tetanus and whoopng cough.

Illinois state law requires all children attending a public, private or parochial school, day care center or nursery school be immunized against measles with a live virus vaccine given at 12 months or older or be able to show medical proof of having the disease.

ALL CHILDREN not complying with the regulation will be excluded from school in the fall, according to the health department.

In 1981, state law will require vaccination with the live virus be after 15 months of age.

The Department of Public Health immunizations are for children in good health and without allergies, asthma or fever. Children must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

About 7 per cent of children develop mild fevers after receiving measles shots, Dr. Hall said.

The county health department recommends the following immunization schedule:

Diptheria-pertussis-tetanus, four shots as a baby and a booster shot on school entrance; polio, three doses as a baby and a booster on school entrance; regular measles, one shot of live measles vaccine after 15 months of age; German measles, one shot, and a tetanus-diphtheria shot upon high school entrance.

Further information can be obtained by calling the Cook County Dept. of Public Health North District Office at 298-5800.

Metropolitan briefs

$1 a gal. gas means use change: survey

Dollar-per-gallon gasoline would be expensive enough to force the majority of motorists to try to change their driving habits, according to a quarterly survey released Monday by Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. in Chicago. The July survey of 750 families in the Chicago metropolitan area shows only 38 per cent would change their driving habits if the price went up to 94 cents per gallon, but 56 per cent would change by the time it reached $1.09. After that point, however, higher prices would have relatively little impact, and 28 per cent said they won't change their driving habits no matter how high the price, the survey showed. Already, 31 per cent of the automobile owners in the group said they have reduced gasoline consumption, and 67 per cent said their next car will be more fuel efficient than their present vehicle, even if no tax credits or rebates are available. Survey respondents were chosen from families in Chicago and suburban Cook, DuPage, Kane, Lake, McHenry and Will counties.

Woman killed by C&NW train

A Des Plaines woman was killed Saturday morning after she apparently stepped into the path of an eastbound commuter train at 1221 E. Northwest Highway in Des Plaines, police said. Betty A. Smith, 51, of 1770 Rand Rd., was dead on arrival at Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines at 8:06 a.m., a half hour after paramedics found her still alive near the tracks. David C. Daruszka, a fireman aboard the Chicago and North Western Ry. train who saw the incident, told police that Mrs. Smith was first seen about half-mile down the track. Daruszka said that when the train was only 100 feet from Mrs. Smith, she walked in front of the train on a center track, turned her back to the train and lowered her head before being struck.

Police investigators said they found no suicide note on the body. Members of the victim's family told police she had been a patient at Forest Hospital, Des Plaines and other state mental hospitals. Members of Mrs. Smith's immediate family told police they had spoken to her only Friday and she seemed "in a good emotional state." The body was turned over to the Cook County Medical Examiner's office in Chicago.

Supercounty plan angers county, town officials here

located city.

In the case of large metropolitan areas such as Chicago, Pearcy grouped surrounding "tributary" counties into the supercounty.

Pearcy's plan was greeted with criticism by Illinois state, county, and local officials.

"I don't see how it could possibly be responsive to local needs," said John Castle, director of the state department of local government affairs.

"The problems of De Kalb County would be totally foreign to Cook County," Castle said.

Castle said supercounties might ease dealings at the state level but the loss of counties would outweigh the gains of simplification.

"So you save money, so what?" he said. "To some extent people are willing to pay to support a responsive system."

"A MONARCHY would simplify government at all levels, but I don't see anyone recommending that," Castle said.

Castle said the state already encourages regional cooperation by townships and counties on common problems such as bridge and road work.

"The government we have, cumbersome as it may be, provides a good system," Castle said.

George Dunne, Cook County board president, agreed the county is more responsive system than a regional organization.

"People have a desire to have government close to them," Dunne said. He said they would not have that benefit in a supercounty.

Dunne said despite claims by Pearcy, the supercounty probably would further complicate local government.

Practical political considerations of control also would make the supercounties unfeasible, Dunne said.

WENDELL JONES, former Palatine village president and an advocate of a separate county for the Northwest suburbs, doesn't think much of regional government or organizations.

"He (Pearcy) obviously hasn't waited for a bus in Palatine," was how Jones summed up his feelings on how well regional organizations operate.

But Jones does agree with Pearcy that the present county system needs an overhaul.

"The county has outlived its usefulness," Jones said. 'If it were eliminated, no one would know the difference."

JONES ADVOCATES stressing smaller units, such as townships, as the major form of local government.

"There is a logical size you should not go beyond, and if you do, the responsiveness breaks down," Jones said. He says a local government population should not exceed two or three hundred thousand individuals.

"You serve people, and something that big (a supercounty) would not serve them," Jones said.

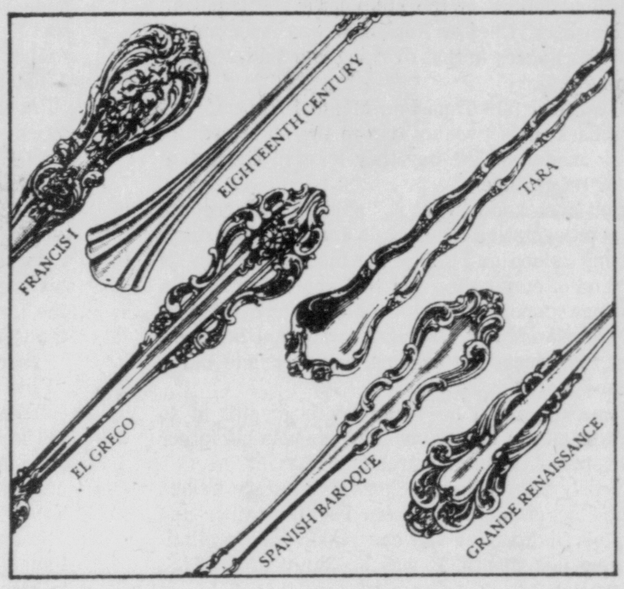

Pearcy said he realizes supercounties are only an idea now, and that many specific problems would have to be solved before they could work.

He received national attention several years ago when he wrote a similar book saying the United States should be reorganized into 38 states.

"I couldn't possibly be an expert on all the details for all these regions, but if I can get people thinking, that's all I want," Pearcy said.

Oswald: "Science endeavors to substitute facts for appearances. Deceptive play tends to substitute appearances for facts.

Jim: "This is really important in duplicate bridge where a trick gained is likely to be a top score earned."

Oswald: "Every South player wound up in four hearts. Since both the heart and spade finesses were on, every South player except one poor unfortunate, made five. That unlucky one was the victim of a deceptive play by East."

Jim: "This East cashed his two diamonds and looked around for new worlds to conquer. He saw that his king of hearts was trapped and noted that if West held the king of spades that card would be dead also. Could he do anything about either finesse?"

Oswald: "He decided that he could so he led his three of spades. South played the ten and overtook with dummy's jack when West played low. Then he led the jack of trumps from dummy."

Jim: "Needless to say, East did not cover, but South went up with the ace to guard against a possible spade ruff. Then he conceded a trick to the king of hearts, made his contract, but got no match points since all other declarers took the heart finesse and made one more trick."

Laws regulate stock sales on exchanges

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Sue Paschke, 16, of St. Paul, Minn., for her question:

WHAT ARE THE STOCK EXCHANGES?

State and federal laws have been established to control all activities involved in the issuing and selling of stock. A share of stock, by the way, is a certificate that proves the holder is part owner of the corporation which issued the stock. The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) handles the administration of federal laws regarding stocks.

A stock exchange, as the name clearly suggests, is a place where agents can buy and sell stocks of various businesses. It actually is a market place.

The two largest markets for stocks and bonds are the New York Stock Exchange and the American Stock Exchange. The New York organization started in 1782, while one in London had been launced only a few years earlier in 1773. Before that, an exchange operated smoothly in Antwerp, Belgium, where it was established in 1531.

If one of the stock exchanges handles a company's stock, it is called a listed stock. To be included on the New York Stock Exchange's list, a company must have 2,000 stockholders who together hold at least 1 million shares, and the company also must have an annual earning power of over $2.5 million before taxes. As you can see, only rather substantial companies can qualify for this type of listing.

Companies having stock that do not meet the requirements of the major exchanges can be sold in what is called over-the counter trading.

Stocks fluctuate in value. If you want to buy several shares of a stock from a certain company, you contact a brokerage house where the current price — or quotation — can be obtained. If you agree on the price, the broker's partner on the floor of the exchange will buy the shares for you. Handling of the details usually is done by telephone or telegraph.

Memberships on the stock exchanges are sold to brokers. Strict requirements are made before a person can be included as a member, however. And the price is often extremely high because of the demand, although it often can go either up or down.

A New York Stock Exchange seat sold from a low of $17,000 in 1942 during a business recession to a high of $625,000 for a seat in 1929. Memberships in some of the other exchanges may be worth from $1,500 to more than $275,000.

Billions of shares of stock are traded each year by the stock exchanges. If general business conditions are good, stock prices usually go up and create what is called a bull market. When conditions aren't good prices of stock go down and create what is called a bear market.

Andy sends the book 200 Illustrated Science Experiments to John Sowell, 11, of Huntsville, Ala., for his question:

WHAT IS A CARAT?

A carat is a jeweler's measure for weighing pearls and precious stones. The word comes from the Arabic carat, meaning bean or seed. Carob tree seeds, in ancient times, were used as weights for precious stones, which were described as being so many carates.

Metric carat weight is 200 milligrams, or .2 grams.

Carat also is used to express the amount of gold in an alloy, a carat being 1/24 of the total weight of the alloy. This means if 18/24 of an alloy is gold, it is 18 carats fine. Pure gold is called 24 carats fine.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Asky Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Blast tears hole in roof of basilica at Lourdes

LOURDES, France (UPI) — A powerful bomb blast Sunday tore a hole in the concrete roof of one of the two basilicas at Lourdes, one of the most revered Roman Catholic religious shrines in the world.

No injuries were reported in the early morning blast at the Saint Pius X underground basilica.

It came a day before thousands of pilgrims were expected in the basilica for services to celebrate the Festival of the Assumption today.

Damage was limited to an air duct, which was destroyed, and a 5-foot-deep crater drilled into the concrete over the basilica's vault. The interior itself was not damaged.

SOME WINDOWS IN the area were shattered.

Church authorities said they had no idea who might have planted the plastic charge. Police said they have no leads and no one has claimed responsibility.

Lourdes is famed for its subterranean springs, which are said to have miraculous healing properties, and for being the place where, according to Catholic belief, the Virgin Mary appeared to Saint Bernadette Soubirous in the 19th century.

The Saint Pius X underground basilica, built in 1958, lies on the southwest fringe of the town of 18,000 inhabitants in southern France.

IT IS ONE OF two basilicas in the town and ranks second in importance to the central Sacre Coeur Basilica, which dates from 1876.

Lourdes was the scene last week of a "traditionalist" mass held by followers of former Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, who has been suspended by Pope Paul VI for rejecting church reforms.

The traditionalists also have scheduled a pilgrimage to Lourdes this week.

A police spokesman said there was no reason to connect the traditionalists with Sunday's bombing.

India celebrates 30 years' freedom

India celebrates 30 years of independence today with a new government, newly regained freedoms and old problems ranging from poverty to assaults on the untouchables. It will be the first independence day in which the Congress party, which led the fight for freedom from the British and went on to rule the nation for nearly three decades, is out of power. The Janata party, a coalition hurriedly stitched together to fight Indira Gandhi and her supporters last March, runs the government now. Prime Minister Morarji Desai and his Janata colleagues took over the government amid widespread cheers and massive good will, but much of it has been dissipated and there are signs of restlessness.

Israel changing view on border

Israel's new government Sunday took a step toward changing the status of the occupied West Bank and the Gaza Strip, granting the population of more than one million Arabs some of the same rights as Israelis. "This is not annexation because it is impossible to annex the land of Isreal to the people of Israel," Cabinet Sec. Arye Naor said after the government's surprise move at a weekly meeting. The decision came less than two months after the inauguration of Prime Minister Menahem Begin and contrasted with the care taken by previous administrations to leave unchanged the legal status of the territories captured 10 years ago.

Spanish hotelworkers on strike

A strike by hotel workers demanding pay raises spread throughout Spain Sunday, forcing 200,000 tourists along the fashionable Costa del Sol to clean their own rooms and live on canned food and cold cuts. Tourists at several family-run resorts skipped sunbathing to help run kitchens, bars and laundries. Most hotels were jammed by an influx of vacationers since Spain devalued its currency by 20 per cent last month. Hotel industry spokesmen reported most tourists faced the situation "in a sporting spirit."

HEW chief named in slush-fund bribe

The wife of a slain Pittsburgh computer company executive has told federal investigators her husband used an $800 Christmas party "slush fund" to pay off a government official, it was learned Sunday. Edwin Parker III, the official of the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare, has been given a dismissal notice and will be investigated by a federal grand jury for alleged favoritism toward the company, On-Line Systems, Inc. The grand jury will look into "potentially criminal" conduct in the awarding of multi-million dollar contracts to On-Line by HEW and the U.S. Senate, presecutors said.

Carter 'hopeful' of Geneva talks

President Carter remains hopeful a Geneva peace conference can be arranged this fall although "major differences" between Arabs and Israelis remain on key issues including secure borders and Palestinian representation, the White House said Sunday. The statement was issued by White House Press Secretary Jody Powell after Sec. of State Cyrus Vance met with President Carter for 2½ hours to report details of his 13 day journey to the Middle East and London, where he helped draft a proposal for majority rule in Rhodesia. "Difficult choices requiring courageous leadership face all parties in the future," Powell said. "President Carter and the Secretary believe that all of the leaders desire peace and are aware of the dangers of stalemate."

No I.D. on Wisconsin blast victim

An explosion which killed one man and critically injured another in Minocqua, Wis., Saturday morning "appears to be commercial or business-oriented," Oneida County officials said Sunday.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the U.S. Treasury Dept. are investigating the blast, which occurred at 2 a.m. in the garage of a 7-Up Bottling Co. lakeside retreat.

The dead man has not been identified, authorities said.

Critically injured and blinded by the blast was William Joyce Jr., 37, of Joliet, cousin and former employe of Thomas Joyce, president of the Illinois 7-Up Corp.

HE WAS TAKEN to St. Mary's Hospital Burn Center in Milwaukee.

Authorities have not been able to determine why William Joyce Jr. and the unidentified man were at the resort.

William Joyce has not been part of the 7-Up Corp. since shortly after it absorbed his company, Joyce Botling absorbed his company, Joyce Bottling Illinois 7-Up Bottling Co. has filed a suit against William Joyce Jr., asking $1 million in punitive damages and $99,150, which it charges was paid out for fictious bills.

The suit also asks for $175,000 in salaries and bonuses from 1970-76.

The bomb blasted a 6 by 9 foot hole in the garage.

The dead man was found two yards outside the rear of the garage, authorities said. They described him as a man of about 55 and darkly-complected. Police said members of the Thomas Joyce family could not identify the man because his body was so torn apart.

Cuban exile unit throws bomb at Venezuelan jet

MIAMI (UPI) — A Cuban exile group tossed a bomb over a fence at Miami International Airport Sunday, rocking buildings a half-mile away, but missing the target — a Venezuelan Air Force DC9.

The anti-Communist Luis Boitel Commandos threatened to attack a commercial plane next unless Venezuela frees an exile leader jailed in connection with the bombing of a Cuban airliner.

The FBI, which entered the case because the bombing involved a foreign flag carrier, joined police in searching for leads to the 11:10 a.m. CDT explosion Sunday.

THE BOMB, apparently thrown over a chain link fence encircling the airport, fell 75 feet short of the Venezuelan jet.

The blast dug a small crater in the ground and rocked airport buildings a half-mile away but there were no injuries and no damage to the plane.

A man with a Latin accent called United Press International's Miami office before and after the explosion to say the blast was the work of the Luis Boitel Commandos.

Several hours later, the crew of the DC9 discovered a seal on a cargo hatch had been broken. Fearing another bomb, crewmen called police who used search dogs to comb the plane. No explosives were found.

The caller phoned UPI at 10:55 p.m. Saturday and 12:55 a.m. Sunday demanding the release of Orlando Bosch, an anti-Castro exile leader jailed in Caracas in connection with the bombing of a Cuban plane Oct. 6. Seventy-three people died.

THE WILLIAMSBURG WING.

A place of pride for those in need of nursing care.

When Americana created the Williamsburg Wing, they did it to add a further dimension to health care: elegance.

The Williamsburg Wing is so beautiful it's hard to believe it's in a health care center. But it is. It's special, even spectacular, but it is unquestionably a part of a health care center.

In the Williamsburg Wing, patients receive fine food served in a private dining room. Each room is magnificently decorated and furnished. The sitting room is pleasantly opulent. All over, the atmosphere is quietly, devotedly luxurious.

THE WILLIAMSBURG WING—for people who are accustomed to more. The Williamsburg Wing is not for everyone. It is for those with an appreciation of more tasteful living. It provides the best of two worlds—privacy, elegance and the special services of its staff—and the ready availability of the professional and therapeutic services of the adjoining Americana Healthcare Center.

Call us for an appointment to visit and inspect our accommodations, services and professional staff.

Lawyer doubts fair trial for Sam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the American Bar Assn. said Sunday massive national publicity may make it as hard for accused "Son of Sam" slayer David Berkowitz to get a fair trial in Los Angeles as in New York.

In an interview on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation" program, ABA President William Spann said it was a "difficult" question whether Berkowitz could get a fair trial because of widespread news reports about the case.

"It's difficult for me to answer that," he said. "I believe too much pre-trial publicity does jeopardize a trial."

BECAUSE MEDIA coverage of the series of killings and of Berkowitz' arrest has been national in scope, he said, "It would be as hard for him to get a fair trial in Los Angeles as in New York City."

Spann also was asked what he thought about the ethics of a lawyer who offered to sell to newspapers the taped conversations of interviews with Berkowitz, who is currently undergoing court-ordered psychiatric examinations.

Spann said Berkowitz, if mentally competent, could waive his confidential relationship with a lawyer and allow such a sale. But "I would think (the lawyer) should not at this point be trying to sell these, because I think the status of Berkowitz' competence ought to be determined before this is done."

On another subject, Spann said he thought the Supreme Court's order allowing lawyers to advertise was "a good thing."

But he suggested individual lawyer advertising should be accompanied by "institutional advertising which would explain to people what to look for in the ads."

He cited a recent magazine article which suggested six things the public ought to think about or ask about when choosing an attorney.

Youngest mayor joins Air Force

LIBERTY CENTER, Ohio (UPI) — Craig Myers, who was the nation's youngest mayor when sworn into office in 1975 at the age of 18, is stepping down Sept. 1 for a hitch in the Air Force.

Myers, who became a candidate for mayor partly on a dare from friends after being arrested on a curfew charge, got support from 18-year-old high school friends voting for the first time in his campaign.

But during the last 20 months of running the 1,200 population village in northwestern Ohio, Myers decided he needed more than the farm life for his remaining years.

He contacted an enlistment officer, who signed him up for training in weapons maintenance in Colorado.

Thoughts on a Mattress

What's in a name? "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet" is a famous quotation.

In mattresses, the magic name is "Orthopedic."

Did you ever ask yourself what an Orthopedic mattress is? Apparently, the Government experts couldn't figure it out either. A few years ago the Federal Trade Commission made the mattress manufacturers stop using the term "Orthopedic" on their mattresses and in their advertising.

So the big mattress makers started calling their mattresses, "This-A-Pedic," "That-A-Pedic," "Whose-A-Pedic," "What's-A-Pedic" — I guess they figured a mattress by any other name would smell as sweet!

We think our customers might like to name their own mattresses. If they want a glamorous mattress, we'll call it "Cleopatra." If they want a sexy mattress, we'll call it "Marilyn." If they want a famous orthopedic type mattress, we'll call it "Doctor Ortho." If they just want a famous name, we'll call it Napoleon, or Joan of Arc, or Einstein.

Whatever they call it, we will still make it with the same quality materials and careful workmanship that we put into all of our mattresses. We still think the first requirement of a good mattress is to give a comfortable night's sleep.

The Little Old Mattress Maker..

Don't forget — we also sell Hollywood Headboards and Frames.

VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

Notice of Public Hearing

Proposed Highway Project

NOTICE IS HERBY GIVEN to all interested persons that a Public Hearing will be held regarding the proposed grade separation improvement of Arlington Heights Road with the Chicago and North Western Transportation Company railroad tracks. The approximate limits of this improvement are: on Arlington Heights Road from a point 200 feet south of George Street to a point 200 feet north of Miner Street; and on Northwest Highway from Vail Avenue to approximately Belmont Avenue.

Among other alternatives to be discussed at the hearing, the improvement recommended in the completed engineering study consists of maintaining the railroad tracks at their existing elevation and depressing Arlington Heights Road to pass under the tracks with a minimum vertical clearnace of 14'-6". Northwest Highway would also be depressed below existing grade to form a depressed at-grade intersection with Arlington Heights Road. Both roadways will be widened to provide four 12-foot lanes with a 16-foot median. The Arlington Heights Road approaches at Northwest Highway will also have separate 12-foot right turn lanes. Wing Street, Evergreen Avenue and Davis Street are proposed to be cul-de-saced at their intersections with Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway. The intersection of Sigwalt Street with Arlington Heights Road is also proposed to be widened and channelized.

Acquisition of additional right-of-way, as well as displacement and acquisition of several businesses will be required by this improvement. The Department of Transportation's relocation advisory assistance program, which will be available to anyone displaced as a direct result of the construction of this project, will be discussed at the hearing. Also discussed will be tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction.

The subject public hearing will be held Tuesday evening, September 20, 1977 in the auditorium of the Village of Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road at 8:00 p.m. After a presentation, residents may make oral statements, as well as submit written statements and other exhibits regarding the improvement. Written statements and/or exhibits will also be accepted at the Village Engineering Department up to ten days following the hearing.

A Draft Negative Declaration of Environmental Impact report, concurred in by the Federal Highway Administration, as well as maps, drawings and other pertinent information developed by the Village of Arlington Heights and the Illinois Department of Transportation, and written views received as a result of coordination with other agencies are available for public inspection and copying at the Village of Arlington Heights Engineering Department, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road, Monday thru Friday, between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Information is also available by telephone at the Engineering Department at 253-2340.

Fall programming—the game of games

Sitting in on a briefing session in which NBC network bigwigs inform executives about programming plans for the fall is like eavesdropping on locker room strategy before the big game.

And the new fall television season has become just that — the game of games.

It is a three-way confrontation in which the networks try to iutdo each other, making changes in an attempt to counterprogram the competition and try o second guess the "other guy."

THE FIERCE, do or die competitiveness the television industry thrives on was never more evident than in a recent closed circuit program planning session.

It was the kind of strategy pow-wow that would make the Chicago Bears, coaches and all, look like rank amateurs.

NBC-TV President Robert Howard opened the session saying he is "not very impressed" with the CBS fall line-up and considers ABC the network's "main competition."

"We are not letting up," Howard defiantly declared. He said NBC has purchased a package of motion pictures from United Artists for the new season that are unannounced for the time being. They also are developing a new Buck Rogers series scheduled to premiere in February that will take advantage of the current "Star Wars" mania.

EVEN WITH a blueprint for special event programming, which NBC has altered since it boldly announced its plans two months ago, and with a host of new programs taking a back seat to the specials, the network has got a back-up plan ready to go.

NBC has gathered mostly rejects into its bundle of back-up programming. To be used in case one or two of its new series don't make it "CPO Sharkey," "Emergency," "Quark," "Car Wash" and "Whatever Happened to the Class of '65?" will be rushed into the breach.

Also included in this dubious group is "James at 15," a new project which could have some popularity potential, and new episodes of the distinguished series "Police Story."

For the most part, NBC's back-up programming appears to be as weak as its new planned series.

WHAT NBC bosses seem determined to do at the outset of the new season is to head ABC off at the pass. The networks seem so anxious about tripping each other up that they have decided to begin their special event programming two weeks before the official start of the new fall season on Sept. 19. They also plan to premiere some of their regular series a week ahead of schedule.

NBC programming bosses seemed peeved because ABC jumped out ahead of the other two networks more than a month ago by announcing plans to air its blockbuster "Washington: Behind Closed Doors" on six consecutive nights beginning Sept. 6.

"What ABC did was to try and position themselves without competition. They have set up that wonderful ABC mystique about mini-series and we're determined that it ("Washington") gets well scheduled and strong competition," said Paul Klein, NBC's vice president of programming.

"What we want to do is essentially knock off 'Washington' right away. If we can injure 'Washington' on Wednesday and Thursday of that week with an effective bridge of programming, we'll have done a job on 'Washington,' " he said. "CBS will probably counter program as well, so they will not have another 'Roots,'."

NBC FIGURES they're going to start a day ahead of ABC on Labor Day, Sept. 5, with the first of its new "Laugh-in" specials and the pilot movie, "James at 15."

NBC will air the movie, "The Hindenburg," against the first episode of "Washington: Behind Closed Doors" Sept. 6 and CBS plans to counterprogram with the full-length film, "Logan's Run," from which it is developing a regular series for the fall.

As the week of "Washington" progresses, NBC plans to air such programming gems as "U.S. Against the World," a sports competition fiasco staged by Don Ohlmeyer, executive producer of the 1980 Moscow Olympics for NBC; an NFL Hall of Fame special followed by the first NFL game, Pittsburg against Dallas; a special previewing its new Saturday morning programs for children; the "Miss Black America Pageant"; the Hollywood Television Academy's Emmy Awards show; a rerun of the movie, "Dirty Harry"; and the premiere episodes of "The Richard Pryor Show," "The Bionic Woman" and "The Wonderful World of Disney."

CBS has fashioned its own program schelule for the week that ABC airs "Washington." Their line-up includes such goodies as "Super Night at Forest Hills," a star-spangled review; the novel-remake of "The Hostage Heart;" a preview of its new Saturday morning children's shows; Woman on the Run," a drama about a Washington wife; a special two-hour "Waltons;" "State Fair America;" "The Miss America Pageant" and a special on the making of the movie, "The Deep."

A SIMILAR brand of game-playing, last minute change and sinister strategy will take place throughout the season on the part of all three networks. It appears a good deal of energy and time is being spent to reshuffle programming that is, for the most part, senseless and shabby.

Certainly the pacement of a program and consideration of the shows it will be running against is important to the program's success. But, if television executives spent as much of their time upgrading programming quality as they do rescheduling their shows, television would be a more worthwhile pastime.

Program Notes: Sylvia Chase, the CBS reporter who has been serving as anchorwoman for the network's "Magazine" series, has been hired by ABC news to host that network's prime-time newsmagazine scheduled to air each week beginning in 1978. Ms. Chase will be paid an estimated $135,000 a year to co-anchor the network's answer to CBS' "60 Minutes".

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

• "The Primary English Class" is a 7 p.m. pilot on Channel 7 about ethnic students trying to master the English language.

• Flash Gordon returns for a third straight week, this time in "Purple Death From Outer Space" at 8 p.m. on Channel 9.

Assessments in Scarsdale seem a little 'messed up'

When shown the figures indicating one large Orchard Street home, including land, was being given a fair market value of about $78,000, Wheeling Twp., Assessor Marshall Theroux replied, "Somebody blew it."

THE INTENTION of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

In setting the assessments, the county assessor tabulates the actual sale prices of similar homes in the same area which have been sold recently, corrects for variations, and estimates what each property would bring on the open market.

"Assessments are supposed to be tied right to the value of the property, but never have they been tied in as directly as they are now," Theroux said.

"What they did this year was to start all over in a sense and attempted to determine current market values. They didn't just take the old figures and use a multiplier on them," he said.

THE drop in land values in Scarsdale Estates compared to the hefty increases in the adjacent Scarsdale and Park Manor areas does not necessarily mean an error was made, Theroux said. "The previous values in Scarsdale Estates may have been out of proportion," he said.

The dramatic changes also can be attributed to "an inflationary spiral like we've never seen before," Theroux said.

But the drop in Scarsdale Estates land assessments and the diminishing house values on Orchard Street belie previous statements by Theroux that the assessment increases are higher for older homes and those with "a goodly amount of land, bigger than the average single-family lot size."

Immediately north of Scarsdale Estates, in an area identified as Scarsdale and widely known for its affluent residents and expensive homes of all designs, land assessments went up about 36 per cent and house assessments generally went up on the average of 20.9 per cent.

HOWEVER, THE LOTS in Scarsdale are generally 50 by 132, about half as big as in Scarsdale Estates, and the homes are older, two-story buildings.

To the east of the Scarsdale and Scarsdale Estates areas is a newer area called Park Manor, where the lots are generally about 50 by 132 and the two-story houses are about 10 years old. Park Manor is very much unlike Scarsdale and Scarsdale Estates where sidewalks, streetlights, curbs and gutters have been shunned in order to retain their unique, higher-income character.

Park Manor has all of those improvements and only saplings to shade their small lawns. But land assessments there went up 70 per cent from 1972 to the same level as similar lots in Scarsdale. Assessments for houses in Park Manor also increased significantly, about 25 per cent in most cases. However, one small frame house on Cleveland had its assessment increase 66 per cent and the 50 by 132 foot lot it sits on went up 70 per cent.

room ranch house at 330 S. Burton St., Arlington Heights, at $10,570, which computes to a fair market value of $62,176.

"I think that when that assessment was made for Jan. 1, 1976, my property probably was worth something in the high 60s or low 70s. Most assessments are lower than what they'd actually sell for," Theroux said.

The 1976 quadrennial reassessment meant much larger increases for the bigger, colonial-style homes next to Theroux. Charles Oestmann's four-bedroom house now is valued at $74,352, which "proportionally" is about right in comparison to his own home, Theroux said.

One more house away, Roger Girard's colonial style home is valued at $61,123, which surprised Theroux. "I'd be very confident that his home is probably $10,000 more valuable than mine," he said.

But Theroux isn't complaining. He hears enough complaints from people who are upset that neighbors' tax bills are lower. He knows that to complain, in most cases, does little good.

Showdown on tax revolt today

Taxpayers United of Illinois.

TOBIN SAID he plans to stage a protest, placards and all, at 10 a.m. today at the office of County Assessor Thomas M. Tully in the County Building, 118 N. Clark St., Chicago.

He and other protesters will urge last-minute tax payers there to "Go home . . . don't pay your taxes."

If local and state officials do not listen to the strikers' demands, they will face rough running in the next election, Tobin said.

"We have overwhelming support of 90 per cent of the peeople . . . just ask around," he said.

Tobin called the county's threats to begin selling protestor's property by Nov. 15 a bluff. Because of the slow nature of the bureaucracy, the county is just getting around to acting on unpaid tax bills from 1975, he said.

"These men are not our rulers, they're our employes," Tobin said. "We've let the government get out of control and it's partially our fault. But we're going to let these gentlemen know things are out of hand."

Taxpayer anger prompts revolt

Northwest suburban residents are being exhorted to join a taxpayers strike because of enormous tax increases.

Schools, parks and libraries that successfully won tax referendums in the past year are calling in the chips in the form of skyrocketing tax bills. Other units of government raised taxes without referendum because of home rule powers.

Initial anger was directed at Cook County Assessor Thomas M. Tully who has embarked on a reassessment policy based on property's fair market value. Under former assessor P. J. Cullerton, assessments were erratic and in many cases unjust, and the market value assessment was looked on as a needed reform.

But as the protestors point out, market value assessments are the captive of runaway inflation. The wisdom of Tully's proposal that lowered the level of assessment on homes from 22 to 17 per cent of market value to help counter inflated prices is now very apparent. Fair market assessment is still a sound principle but one that needs to be tailored to the economics of inflation.

Now taxpayers are organizing and giving government officials fair warning that future tax increases will be more closely scrutinized. In Palatine last week, some 250 residents said they would support the taxpayers' revolt by refusing to pay tax bills, demonstrating against high taxes, or contributing their time and money to the protest movement.

Area residents protesting their taxes this year deserve to be taken seriously. Government officials are the public's "employes," not its master, something the protest leaders point out.

There is merit in the protesters "demand" that the Aug. 15 deadline for payment be extended, especially for persons who face real hardship because of the giant tax increases.

Taxpayers are angry and frustrated. The multiplicity of taxing districts in this state makes it difficult for the average taxpayer to answer the question, "Who's to blame for all this?"

Government is on notice that the resources of Cook County taxpayers are not unlimited.

Zerkle should keep job

Before Terry L. Zerkle became Wheeling village manager in June of 1976, incompetence was a way of life at village hall.

Under his predecessor, the village was on shaky financial ground and was forced to issue tax anticipation warrants to make ends meet. Relations between management and police personnel had deteriorated to the point where a strike was imminent.

Things were so disorganized that the village board was forced to act: it fired its village manager and set out on a search for a new man who would bring professionalism back to Wheeling. That man was Zerkle.

Now it appears that Zerkle himself will be fired by the new village board elected in April. His job is in jeopardy because of pressure from Village Pres. William Hein and his associates to hire the police chief of their choice — a function delegated by law to Zerkle alone. Hein and his majority on the board will meet tonight to determine Zerkle's fate.

The board should put politics aside and retain Zerkle for the good of the village.

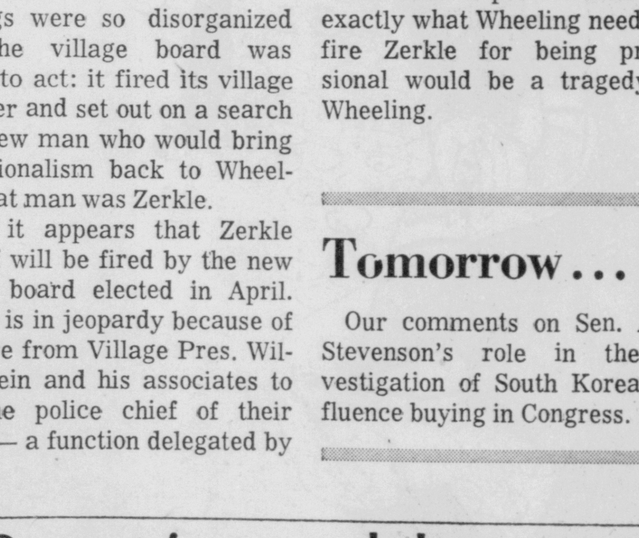

Since Zerkle became manager, he has refused to let politics interfere with his job as manager. He has done what he believed was best for the village.

This kind of professionalism is exactly what Wheeling needs. To fire Zerkle for being professional would be a tragedy for Wheeling.

Meditation on the thoughts of wise men from the past

Jim Bishop

We were lunching at the Diplomat and Sidney Schulman asked if meditation is purely religious. No, I said, I do it every day for about 20 minutes. I sit in a quiet place and take the handcuffs off my cockeyed mind.

I permit it to wander wherever it pleases to go. Sometimes the brain will touch on a tender note and I will follow it to a dead end. Most of the good thoughts are stolen from better men. Yesterday, I was reflecting on maxims and aphorisms.

Normally, I have trouble recalling my phone number, but I was astonished at the wise sayings which came to mind. They moved from La Rochefoucauld to Santayana to Bierce, Kafka, Whitman and Chesterton. It's like visiting a dusty attic full of forgotten mementos.

HERE IS A SAMPLE, given in the hope that you might find time to sit somewhere today, clasp your hands across your stomach, close your eyes, and remove the chains from your thoughts:

"Self love is the greatest of all flatterers." "Why shouldn't life be largely absurd? It is so and we are so and we and it go very well together." "We freely confess to small faults so that others may think we have no great ones."

"It is easy to find women who never had a love affair, almost impossible to find ladies who had but one." "If we distrust people we justify their deceiving us." "Love is a mystery. In the soul it is a thirst for mastery; in the mind a harmony of thought, in the body a delicately hidden desire to possess."

"There are successful-marriages; no eternally blissful ones." "We get so much in the habit of wearing a disguise before others that we eventually appear disguised before ourselves." "Jealously is born with love, but outlives it."

"ACQUAINTANCE: A degree of friendship called slight when the subject is poor, and intimate when the subject is rich or famous." "Adaze: boned wisdom for weak teeth." "We usually like those who admire us." "Advice: the smallest coin." Also: "He who gives advice freely needs it most."

"It is an affectation to tell people that you never indulge in it." "Men who cannot direct you to a corner drugstore get a respectful hearing when age has impaired their minds." "When several people agree with you, start to suspect yourself."

"Maybe ain't ain't correct, but notice that lots of perfectionists who ain't using ain't ain't eating either." "Nothing is as merciless as an alarm clock." "The greatest giver of charity is the coward." "Ambassadors are honored spies."

"America wasn't discovered. It was detected by a pilot far off course." "To start a love affair, first make the lady laugh." "Anatomy: a map depicting the theater of events." "He who strikes the first blow concedes he has lost the dispute."

"A FULLY UNDERSTOOD god is no god at all." "The greatest art is artless." "If one person tells you that you are an ass, turn away; if two tell you, buy a saddle." "The atheist has no one to thank." "While an author lives, we judge him by his worst book; when he dies, we rate him by his best."

"A banker is a fellow who lends an umbrella when the sun is shining, and wants it back the moment it begins to rain." "In war, no battles are won; all are lost." "Whatever you are, try to be it perfectly."

"The wise cleric said: 'People believe. We know.'" "Man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to." "Capitalism is a chronic crisis." "In marriage there is pain; in celibacy no pleasure." "Women pine to be rescued from their virtues, never from their vices."

"I not only use all the brains I have, but all that I can borrow."

"A LITTLE CHILD thinks that fifty cents and fifty years can never be spent." "To choose not to choose is a choice." "A sparrow fluttering inside a temple is an antagonist no theologian can cope with."

"How wonderful that, no matter what Adam said, he could be certain that no one had said it before." "Civilization is the limitless multiplication of unnecessary necessities."

Try it. It is not necessary to think of wise men or what they said. You might start by pondering that a dozing puppy is the center of the universe . . .

The lighter side

On becoming a walking commercial

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI—Recent testimonials from five of my friends involved in man's losing battle to avoid becoming a walking billboard:

Burnbridge reports: "I went out last week to buy a small vinyl cooler to take to the beach. I had to go to three stores before I could find one that wasn't imprinted with either beer or soft drink labels.

"If the beer or soft drink companies were giving these things away in order to get their labels displayed, that would be one thing. But the opposite appears true.

"THE COOLERS with the labels on them cost more than I paid for the noncommercial one I finally bought. What is the world coming to?"

Templehair reports: "One of my kids gave me a tennis shirt for Father's Day. It's a fine shirt except for one thing — it has a little alligator stitched on the front where the pocket would be if it had a pocket.

"I have nothing against alligators but at my age I would feel ridiculous appearing on the tennis court with a Walt Disney character on my chest.

"It took me nearly 20 minutes to remove the alligator with a razor blade and even then I made a small hole in the shirt while cutting the threads. Is there no justice?"

TORTBAKER reports: "My birthday was last week and my wife gave me what was obviously a rather expensive necktie. It's really got me buffaloed.

Down near the bottom, there's a small embroidered letter 'C' which is the designer's initial.

"The thing that's bugging me is why my wife would be giving me a necktie with someone else's initial? Isn't there enough trouble in the world already?"

Pedalfault reports: "I was trying on some leisure suits the other day. I found one I liked real well and I would have bought it except that I discovered it was a factory second.

"APPARENTLY, there was something wrong with the labeling machine. Anyway, in one place on the jacket and another on the pants the brand name was on the outside instead of the inside where a label belongs.

"I pointed this out to the clerk, but he claimed it was supposed to be like that and refused to knock down the price. I never heard anything so ridiculous.

"No clothing factory would make an intentional mistake. Or has the world gone mad?"

Phizbeam reports: "I took my son to a shoe store to get him a pair of sneakers. Call me a liar if the pair he picked out didn't have the brand name printed in big red letters across the top of the tongues. "Are we nearing the point where you've got to let the whole world know what brand of shoes you're wearing? Is this what they mean by 'letting it all hang out?'"

'Area protest overstated'

Poor Pauline, no one has declared war (Fence Post, Aug. 10) on you but yourself. When will you learn that you accomplish nothing with war-like tactics!

"War has been declared upon the Thomas - Patton area in Arlington Heights by the Arlington Heights School District 25.

"The area is already besieged with heavy traffic on Arlington Heights Road. Wilson has already been closed because of age; Thomas may close next year and Patton is endangered. Just a closed school is a trauma; however, a university is trying to rent Thomas. With a university at Thomas, Olive elementary school will not attract families with children to our area. With fewer children in the area anyway, Olive will close too.

"Why has war been declared upon our area?"

See, I can say the same things for my area that you can say for yours, Pauline. You have made outrageous assumptions about Kensington and Windsor that are not true, emphasized by the above statements about Patton and Olive that are also not true.

Kay Orr
Arlington Hts.

THERE HAS BEEN much publicity recently for a group of irate homeowners concerning the leasing of Miner Junior High School to Roosevelt University for use as junior/senior university. I feel it's unfair to assume that this small group of people reflects the opinion of the other 70,000 inhabitants of our village.

Arlington's high schools are excellent. Harper is a very good junior college. Roosevelt would be a logical extension of our already excellent facilities for higher education. I fail to see how it could possibly be a detriment to our community.

I appreciate the homeowners' concern about traffic. We live two blocks from a high school and the traffic is a problem. However, in their case the traffic will be generated not by reckless, immature youths, but by upper classmen college students, the median age of which is anticipated to be in the thirty to forty year age group. Many of these will be parents themselves and maybe even neighbors. As for real estate values, ours has not been affected one iota by our nearness to a school with its related traffic problems.

It's rather like being on a commuter railroad line. The traffic generated during rush hours is horrendous, aggravating, and often dangerous. Yet, living in a village with transportation facilities is a plus factor. So, there will occasionally be traffic problems associated with Roosevelt University, but a new institution of higher learning cannot help but be a plus factor for our community.

On abortion

After reading numerous letters in The Herald from pro-lifers in their opposition to abortion, I have to wonder where they stand when they talk of having total concern for a child's welfare. The pro-lifers have stated that the life of a child is the most important thing to consider and they see abortion as an act of murder. Just knowing that thousands of children each day are being subjected to beatings, burnings, scaldings and starvation should be enough to make one realize that abortion would have been the most humane thing to do for these children instead of forcing these children to go through torture every day of their lives.

Are pro-lifers saying to women who must suffer with unwanted pregnancies, "Look, just because you were raped or just because your life may be endangered by this pregnancy or just because birth control methods are not 100 per cent effective, that's no valid excuse for having an abortion?" That's an extremely harsh punishment to dole out to the mother and that child.

For those of you who choose to keep your children, that is your choice. For those of you who choose abortion, I hope you will continue to fight for the right to govern your own bodies. Pro-lifers have said that embryos have rights and that they are thinking, feeling individuals. I'm curious to know how the pro-lifers were able to get into the minds of all embryos in saying that they all want to live. If those embryos are really thinking, feeling individuals, they should also be able to decide against life as well as for it. Pro-lifers say that proabortionists are ignoring the rights of the unborn. Aren't the pro-lifers doing the same? Aren't they also making choices for that embryo and ignoring what the embryo may really want to do? How do the pro-lifers know that life is the right choice for an embryo.

Abortion is here to stay until our society can find a better way of dealing with unwanted children.

Philadelphia's comic strip battle humorless fight for the funnies

Threaten a newspaper editor's First Amendment protection and you will have a fight on your hands. But if you really want to rile him, threaten to take away a popular comic strip. After all, what good is freedom of the press if you lose Snoopy or Blondie or Beetle Bailey?

Hence the great Doonesbury battle, which proved that Philadelphia is not really the city where nothing ever happens. It was fought in the federal court there and the outcome was that Garry Trudeau's iconoclastic comic strip, Doonesbury, will move Monday from the evening Bulletin to the morning Inquirer. And if you don't think that makes the Bulletin people sad and the Inquirer people glad, you don't know the news business.

Doonesbury is not among the very top comic strips in terms of sales, but it appears in some 400 newspapers and it has a devoted, almost fanatical, following. Its knowing, usually hilarious, often biting treatment of contemporary life — particularly public life, from the White House down — is cherished by its fans as an oasis in a wasteland.

IN PHILADELPHIA, the Bulletin has been publishing Doonesbury since it began as a commercial strip. In fact the Bulletin claims to have been the first general circulation newspaper to carry it.

Charles B. Seib

There is a bitter contest for newspaper dominance in Philadelphia, so naturally the Bulletin's feisty rival, the Inquirer, coveted Doonesbury. Last month it closed a deal with Universal Press Syndicate to buy it.

Universal so informed the Bulletin, which cried foul and went to court. On Aug. 8, the Bulletin lost what was perhaps the final round of the Doonesbury battle when a U.S. District Court judge refused to enjoin the switch.

In its fight to keep the strip, the Bulletin claimed that it had a contract with Universal — oral but valid — that had over a year to run. It also claimed that in taking Doonesbury and a number of lesser features to the Inquirer, Universal was recognizing the clout — not to mention the business potential — of the big Knight-Ridder newspaper chain, of which the Inquirer is a part.

WRONG ON ALL counts, said Universal. It insisted there was no contract and that, in fact, the Bulletin had resisted syndicate attempts to get one. So, said Universal, all that was needed was a 30-day notice of Doonesbury's departure, which it gave on July 14.

The syndicate also denied it was buttering up Knight-Ridder. This was a local matter involving just three factors, a Universal spokesman said: The Inquirer agreed to sign a long-term contract; the Inquirer doesn't claim the broad exclusive territory claimed by the Bulletin (which means that Doonesbury now can be sold to other papers in the area); and, all in all, Trudeau and the syndicate will make more money under the new arrangement.

This was no friendly tussle. Comics may not be quite the drawing card they were in pre-television days, but they still attract and hold readers. The judge in the Bulletin case was not far off the mark when he called them the "lifeblood" of newspapers.

Popular strips can be gold mines. The Bulletin was paying $325 a week for Doonesbury. That is unusually high — to compensate, the Bulletin says, for its broad territorial claim. But even so, when you consider that 400 papers buy Doonesbury it is clear that Trudeau and his syndicate do well.

DOONESBURY HAS BEEN no stranger to controversy. In 1973 when Mark, the far-out disc jockey in the strip, declared that John Mitchell was "Guilty! Guilty, Guilty, Guilty!!," a number of papers suppressed that day's strip. Doonesbury fans rose up and switchboards at the offending papers were flooded with protests.

Doonesbury was the first comic to win a Pulitzer prize, and it broke comic strip gound of another kind last year when one of its characters, Joanie Caucus, a law student, spent the night with a male friend.

It is easy to go overboard about Doonesbury. A spokesman for protesters did — although not by much — when the San Francisco Chronicle suppressed one day's strip a couple years ago. Doonesbury, he said, "has intellectual substance perceptibly greater than anything else in the Chronicle."

Panama pact signals friendlier era

by JAMES NELSON GOODSELL

Panamanian-U.S. agreement over the future of the Panama Canal signals the possibility that a new, friendlier era in Washington's relations with Latin America is in the offing.

The agreement on a new treaty giving Panama eventual control of the 63-year-old waterway is easily the most important hemisphere development in decades. It nudges aside what many believe to be the critical impediment in Washington's dealings with its southern neighbors.

Latin America is clearly lined up solidly behind Panama in its claim to the canal.

WASHINGTON IS not unmindful, however, that the biggest hurdle in the whole treaty process still may lie ahead as the U.S. Senate debates its ratification.

But last week's announcement of final agreement on details of the document ends 13 years of protracted, often acrimonious negotiations over the canal issue between Panama and the United States.

There was almost an audible sigh of relief in the Carter administration and the State Dept. as the announcement came late Aug. 10, and an immediate outpouring of praise for the treaty came from Latin American capitals.

THE TREATY'S exact wording is still being hammered out, with what one Washington source called "the dotting of all 'i's and crossing of all 't's expected within a month."

Meanwhile, the details of the treaty will shortly be flashed out in simultaneous speeches by President Carter and Gen. Omar Torrijos Herrera, the Panamanian strong man.

There is little doubt that some of the treaty conditions will be unsatisfactory to elements in the Senate, while the whole concept of a treaty doing away with the treaty of 1903 and U.S. control of the 50-mile-long waterway is anathema to many senators.

Selling it to Congress — and ultimately to the U.S. public — will not be easy.

The Carter administration hopes that announcement of the treaty's broad outline this week and President Carter's subsequent speech to the nation will stir enough momentum to get the ratification process successfully under way.

BOTH U.S. NEGOTIATORS of the treaty, veteran diplomat Ellsworth Bunker and noted Latin Americanist Sol M. Linowitz, are back in Washington preparing this next stage of their effort on the treaty.

President Carter is aware of this. He had it in thought during the past three weeks as he personally took a hand in the negotiations, meeting with the negotiators in the White House and then sending a letter to General Torrijos.

Argument against the new treaty is based, in part, on the feeling that the U.S. is "giving up" the canal. And in the wake of the American debacle in Southeast Asia, many people are unwilling to give up something regarded as a symbol of U.S. achievement and power. In addition, some members of the Senate see the new document as a danger to U.S. security.

But the Senate is quietly being told that, in the view of the administration and the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, insistence upon the status quo with retention of the treaty of 1903 could prove a real threat to U.S. interests in the years ahead.

In this view, the new treaty has in it ample protection on security matters, including the provision for a continuing U.S. defense role beyond the year 2000.

Pharmacist has "tried them all..." ...discovers weight control program that really works!

Pharmacist Dan Smith of Burger's Drug Store in St. Charles, Illinois is a NaturSlim "believer" after losing 18 pounds in just two weeks. After hearing so much about the NaturSlim program from customers and seeing the excellent results they were having, Dan decided to try it himself.

"In my many years as a pharmacist, I've seen and tried numerous weight-loss plans, but none have worked as well for me as NaturSlim. And NaturSlim is very nutritional too!"

After three months, Dan has not regained any of the lost pounds either, as so often happens when "rebounding" from starvation diet plans. He maintains his weight by taking NaturSlim once daily . . . and eating normally otherwise.

Dan says, "It was surprisingly easy, too! I didn't have to attend any weigh-ins, starve myself or do any special exercises."

With the NaturSlim program, there are no shots, drugs or long lists of forbidden foods. In fact, you are encouraged to eat a normal, well-balanced dinner every day.

The next time you are in the St. Charles area, stop by Burger's Drugs and see Dan yourself. He'll tell you personally what he thinks about NaturSlim!

Phone companies struck briefly

Tens of thousands of telephone company workers struck briefly in New York and Michigan Sunday before joining employes in other parts of the country in accepting phone company contracts. A spokesman for American Telephone & Telegraph Co. in Washington said the last of the strikers returned to work by mid-morning. About 58,000 striking workers reached a tentative agreement on a new three-year contract with the New York Telephone Co. following all-night talks on local issues. The 35,000-member Communication Workers Union reached an accord with the company at 5:30 a.m. CDT Sunday — six and a half hours after picket lines went up. Agreements with six independent unions representing 23,000 other workers were settled later in the morning, a company spokesman said. In Detroit, negotiators reached a tentative agreement early Sunday for 20,000 Michigan Bell Telephone Co. employes. The pact came seven hours after workers started leaving their jobs following a midnight strike deadline.

Business groups to meet Aug. 21

The National Federation of Independent Business and the National Assn. of Manufacturers are sponsoring a conference on "Economic Education and the Future of Capitalism" Aug. 21-23 at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare, Rosemont. Conferees will seek to find new strategies to help restore public confidence in business and public support for the competitive enterprise system. Among the speakers will be Robert Bleiberg, editor of Barron's; columnist Kevin Phillips; Paul Weaver, associate editor of Fortune; Alan A. Walters, urban adviser of the World Bank; and Michael MacDowell of the Joint Council on Economic Education.

UOP unit, Spanish firm sign pact

UOP's Process Division, Des Plaines, and Compania Espanola de Petroleos, S.A. (CEPSA) of Madrid, Spain, have announced the signing of a cooperative research agreement. J. F. Pittas, president of the Process Div. of UOP Inc., said the proposed joint research program will include fermentation and enzymatic reactions, biological waste treatment and chemical processes involving microorganisms or biological catalysts. Pittas said both companies already have active research programs in these areas.

New standards for tool, die

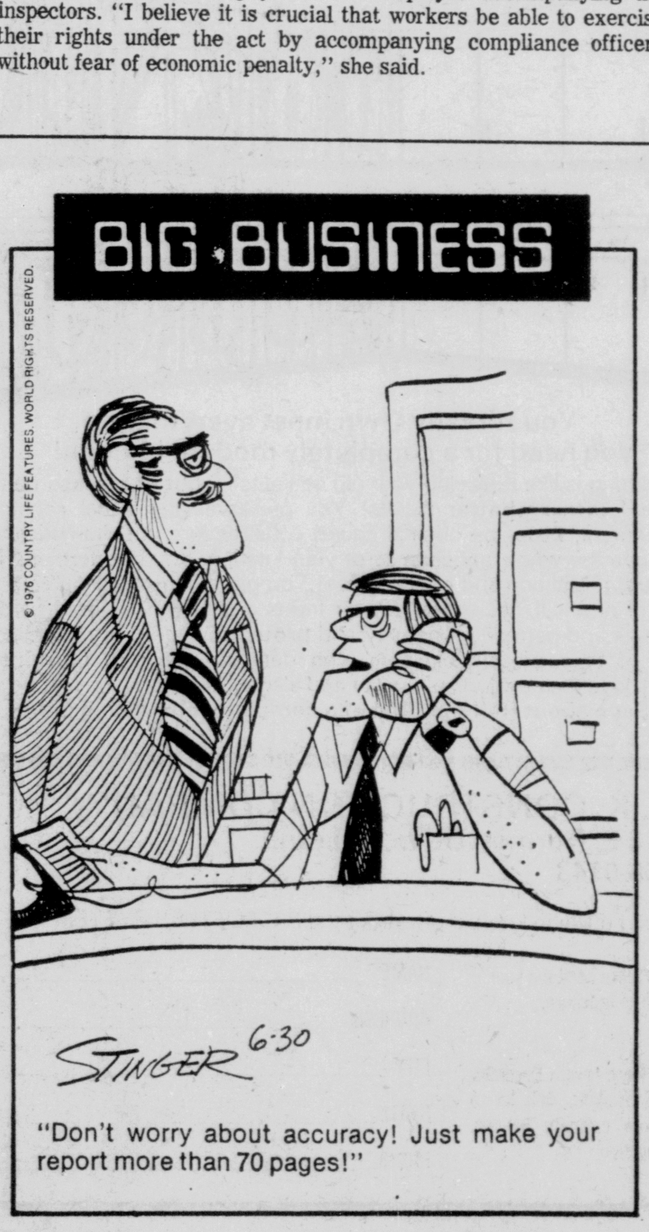

The Tool & Die Institute, and Illinois metal working trade association in Park Ridge and the Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, U.S. Dept. of Labor, have developed a new set of industry pattern standards for the apprentice training of tool and die makers, mold makers and precision machinists. The new pattern standards will replace the previous areawide standards and will act as a model which can be tailored to an individual company. Copies of the new pattern standards are available from the Tool & Die Institute, at a price of $5 a copy.

IRS exam deadline today

The Internal Revenue Service has selected Oct. 6 and 7, 1977, as the test dates for the 1977 special enrollment examination. The examination, given annually to qualify persons who are neither CPAs nor attorneys to represent clients before the IRS, will be held in Chicago for applicants in northern Illinois. To qualify for the examination, applicants must submit Form 2587, application for the 1977 Special Enrollment Examination, to the Director, Audit Div., Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C., 20224, no later than today. No extensions to file will be granted. Information about the examination is available from the Chicago IRS office by calling 435-1040 or toll-free 1-800-972-5400.

Labor Dept. reverses pay rule

The Labor Dept. has reversed an earlier decision denying pay to workers for the time spent accompanying federal job safety and health officers on plant inspections. Eula Bingham, assistant secretary of labor for the Occupational Health and Safety Administration, recently made the announcement. Mrs. Bingham said the workers will be paid for the first time and employers failing to pay will be charged with discriminating against their workers. She said the decision represented a reversal of a 1971 case involving a New Jersey local of OCAW. In that case, the union filed a complaint against the Mobil Oil refinery in Paulsboro. The complaint requested that an inspection be made of all the possible hazards in the refinery. The federal agency spent five weeks at the plant and Mobile decided not to pay the two employes accompanying the inspectors. "I believe it is crucial that workers be able to exercise their rights under the act by accompanying compliance officers without fear of economic penalty," she said.

Buyers anxious to reach Accord must wait with patience for cars

by LYNN ASINOF

It isn't easy to buy a Honda Accord, the hottest thing on the car market since whitewall tires.

First, you probably won't get to see a model of the car before you plunk down your $100 deposit. The cars are selling so fast that dealers don't keep them on the floor.

If you're lucky, you'll get to see one in the dealer's lot, but you won't get to drive it because it already has been sold.

Area dealers say there is a three to six month wait for the cars, which are selling for about $5,000 including transportation and dealer preparation charges.

Dealers say they've stopped trying to sell the car because the waiting list is so long. Carr's Honda in Chicago and Highland Park Honda are refusing to take orders for the car because of the backlog.

BUT THE CAR sells itself, and the dealers say people come in and ask for the Accord.

"People come in and they want that car — that particular car," said Sy Schiffman, assistant manager of Nortell Honda in Morton Grove.

The car gets 42 miles to a gallon of gas and doesn't require unleaded fuel to meet pollution standards. It has also received very good [illegible] auto magazines and consumer guides.

"The car is a very, very well-made auto. It has all the features of an expensive European sportscar. The mileage is phenomenal and the maintenance is low cost," Schiffman said.

Schiffman said all Hondas are in short supply, but the Accord heads the list. "The demand has not leveled off. In fact it is increasing," he said.

THE HONDA ACCORD may not be the fastest thing on the road, but it's the fastest moving car on any sales lot in the Chicago area. The demand for the Japanese-made automobile is so great that most car dealers can't keep a model on the showroom floors and back orders are lengthy.

BUYERS HAVE little choice when they pick out their Accord. The model comes with either a 5-speed shift or an automatic transmission. There are only three colors — silver, blue and gold. The rest of the equipment, with the exception of air conditioning, is standard.

At Henry Susk Honda in Des Plaines, more than 90 people are waiting for Accords, according to sales representative Bill Felice.

Felice said the dealership receives only 10 or 20 Accords a month, but he said that is a substantially higher allotment than most dealers in the area.

With such a long wait, many customers call the Honda headquarters in California to make sure they aren't getting a run-around from their dealer.

JOE HAIGHT, sales planning and administrative manager, said he's received a lot of these calls. "The best thing they can do is just stay on the list and work their way up," he said, noting that the situation is the same all over the country.

The great demand means prices vary from dealer to dealer. The highest price in the area is being asked by Nortell Honda at $5,112 plus tax. Henry Susk is low man on the pricing scale, asking $4,735.

Felice said it has been a long time since a car has caused such a furor on the market. "The (Datsun) 280Z, when it first came out in 1971, was the same kind of car," he said.

He said those who want the Accord will have to just be patient. They have no choice.

New pension plans protect women

Jane Bryant Quinn

Staying ahead

NEW YORK — Slowly, slowly, steps are being taken to win pension rights for women homemakers. This is an important issue not only for women, but also for their husbands and children, whose responsibility it is (or should be) that a woman at home has some financial protection in her old age.

For older widows without children, or women whose husbands leave them, a pension may make the difference between the dignity of self-support and life on the dole. There are some 26 million homemakers in this country with no incomes at all, and another 20 million with small incomes from part-time jobs.

The first step toward pension protection for homemakers came three years ago, with the passage of the Pension Reform Act. Until then, a man's pension usually stopped when he died. His widow got no further benefits from the company. A few pension plans allowed workers to choose lifetime incomes (or a lump-sum cash payment) for their spouses, but these were in the minority.

BUT NOW, PENSION plans must offer workers two options:

- When he becomes eligible for early retirement, a worker can sign up for spouse benefits in case of death. This means that if he dies before retirement, when he normally would become eligible for a pension, his wife still will have pension for life. This benefit is generally chosen by workers in poor health, who fear that they won't live until retirement.
- At retirement age, the worker again has the chance to choose a pension that will provide his spouse with benefits as long as she lives.

With either option, the monthly check will be lower than if the worker took the pension for his lifetime only. But it's a way of assuring his wife an income if he has insufficient savings or Social Security benefits to support her after his death.

A second step toward pensions was taken last year, in the amendments to the law on Individual Retirement Accounts. IRAs are tax-sheltered pension plans for workers not covered by employe plans. A worker can set aside 15 per cent of his earnings, up to a maximum contribution of $1,500 each year, and deduct the money from his income taxes.

Starting this year, a worker whose spouse earns no money of her own can start a joint IRA, depositing up to $1,750 per year. One-half of the IRA is owned by each of them. If the couple splits, each is entitled to half his or her half.

REP. PAUL S. Trible Jr., a Virginia Republican, recently introduced a bill that would greatly improve the homemaker's IRA. Trible believes a qualified man and his wife should each be able to put up to $1,500 per year into his or her own with the wife's contribution based on her husband's earnings. That would bring the maximum family contribution to $3,000 per year — a far more realistic figure than today's $1,750. If you support this concept, by all means write your congressman and say so.

This plan wouldn't be of much help to couples with modest incomes, since they often can't afford to set aside 15 per cent of their wages each year for retirement savings. IRAs are used mainly by those with enough income to save regularly, and who see the virtues of saving in a tax-deferred retirement plan rather than a regular savings account.

These improved IRAs also won't help women who are unmarried, but for one reason or another don't have incomes. But they're a step in the right direction. Once the vast numbers of homemakers are eligible for decent coverage, legislators can turn their attention to the remaining gaps.

The dream of many women is to provide homemakers with Social Security benefits in their own right, even if they're divorced from their husbands. (At present divorced women can collect on their husbands' accounts only if they were married for at least 20 years.) At present there's little congressional support for these proposals, because of their high cost.

But it may happen yet. In the past few years, millions of housewives have newly gained some amount of pension protection. If they show by their votes that they want even more and better coverage, they're likely to get it.

Factory outlet stores sell clothes at a bargain

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of the fastest growing retail businesses in the country is the factory outlet firm handling men's clothing.

Its volume has jumped from $200 million in 1973 to $1 billion last year and should hit $1.25 billion this year, , says Marvin A. Blumenfeld, president of April-Marcus, Inc., of New York, which operates 130 of the outlets.

The factory outlet store is a cut-rate affair but it differs from the more traditional cut-rate store in that it does not buy the leftover stocks and odd lots of other retailers. Instead, it buys only from manufacturers and quite often it buys unfinished garments, finishes them and either retails them itself or sells them to other retailers.

THE FACTORY outlet invariably identifies itself as such and usually leaves the name of the manufacturers from whom it has bought the merchandise on the garments. But it may remove labels if required to do so by the manufacturer. Much of what they buy is factory overruns. The manufacturer has been too enthusiastic about a certain suit or jacket in his line and produced too many of them.

The best thing to do in such a case is to get rid of the garments quickly, at a small profit if possible, but the longer they are held the greater the risk of an eventual substantial loss.

The factory outlet chain usually buys in considerably larger quantities than even a large department store, so the manufacturer has a further incentive to give the outlet firm a good deal.

Blumenfeld said factory outlet prices may be less than half the prices for the same garments of department stores or regular men's stores.

They have a much more "no frill" atmosphere than even the cheaper conventional discount stores. They usually are offstreet, upstairs locations in low-rent districts. Little effort is made to display the garments. Pants and some other clothes simply are piled high on unpainted wooden tables. An effort is made to keep them sorted by price and size but customers picking over them often defeat that. Suits and jackets are on hangers but they are crowded on the racks so the customers have to keep hunting to find what they want.

The growth of the factory outlet store, of course, was caused by the recession but changing fashion tastes played a part, too. It is such an efficient way of getting rid of merchandise that it looks as if the factory outlet store is here to stay, Blumenfeld said.

Proposal might raise number of adoptions

by TERRY HERSHEY

Local adoption agencies feel a Carter administration proposal would not significantly affect the number of children available for adoption. But it might help encourage couples to adopt "hard-to-place" children, they say.

The two-part proposal would pay maternity expenses for women who agree to put their children up for adoption, and would provide a federal subsidy to families that adopted "hard-to-place" children.

The proposal is partly in response to a court ruling that the government does not have to pay for abortions with welfare funds.

The agencies feel the decision on whether to have an abortion or give a child up for adoption involves too many factors besides money to be affected by the proposal.

THE WHOLE QUESTION involves the demand and supply of children for adoption.

Adoption agency workers were unanimous in their assessment of the situation. The demand for healthy, white babies is enormous while the supply is small.

The situation is reversed for the hard-to-place children. Those children generally are older or bi-racial children, or children with physical and mental handicaps. And the more severe the problem, the harder it is to place the child.

Sylvia Ragland of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society says, "I would really doubt if paying medical expenses would have any effect on the number of abortions, although it might mean more abortions done by non-physicians."

SEVERAL AGENCY representatives said they believed "back alley" abortions might increase because they would be less expensive than those performed by doctors in medical facilities.

Pat Haynes of the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services said paying medical expenses isn't really helpful because if a woman wants to carry a child and is not able to pay, she usually can receive public aid. And if public aid does not cover the entire cost of having the child, other public or private agencies often help out.

Another factor is the black market, according to the agencies. If a woman is planning to carry a child and then give it up for adoption, she could have her medical expenses and a lot more paid through the black market.

MRS. MARION MITCHELL of the Chicago Child Care Society said a woman could get between $10,000 and $25,000 for her child on the black market.

Another complicating factor, Mrs. Mitchell said, is the recent ruling that a woman must consult the father of the child before giving it up for adoption.

Jerome Gardner of the Bensenville Home Society said he questions the constitutionality of paying only the woman who agrees to put her child up for adoption.

In any case, "It puts the woman in a real compromising position — that money is offered to carry the child, but not to abort," Haynes said.

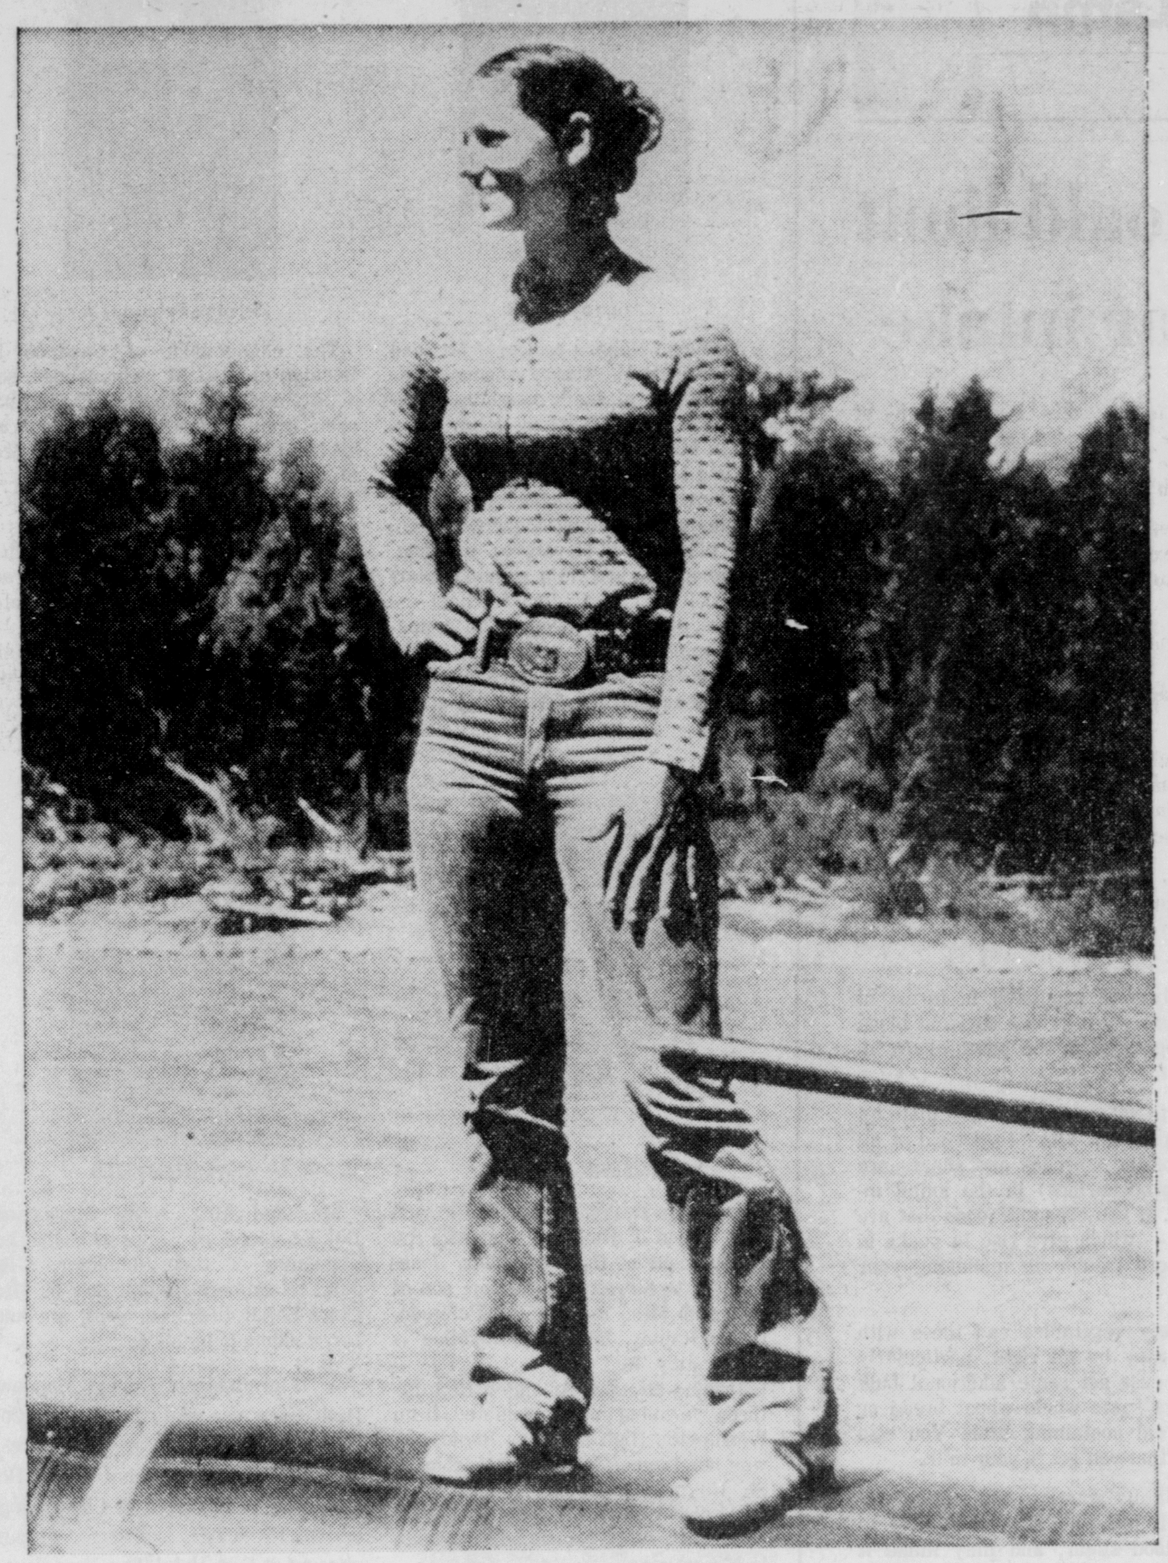

Ragland did say, however, that the promise of payment would help a woman trying to make the difficult decision on whether or not to have an abortion.

BUT OTHER personal factors enter the picture. Barnie Burr of the Crossroads Clinic in Palatine said most of the girls she deals with choose to have an abortion "because they don't want their parents to know."

Another psychological factor also enters according to Sandy Arbit of the Family Counseling Clinic in Grayslake. "Innumerable times when girls are debating whether to have an abortion, I get back a consistent response, which is 'If I'm going to go through with this pregnancy, I'm going to keep the baby.' "

Often what happens, Haynes said, is that the young woman

JEANNE SANDERS, who calls herself "a professional bum," spends her summers guiding raft trips along the Snake River in the Teton Mountains — the first woman to do so.

Female raft guide 'part of crew'

by MARY ELLEN HASKETT

Jeanne Sanders is a "professional bum" who roams the west breaking horses and herding cattle, but not in summer.

Summer she reserves for the Snake River in the Teton Mountains, where she is the first woman guide for the Grand Teton Lodge raft trips.

Ms. Sanders said she applied for the job because she loves the Snake River and "it's great to make good money doing the thing you love."

She was hired as a boatman in 1976 after beating 60 male applicants in the qualifying test.

Until that time, only men had applied for the job, according to the Grand Teton Lodge Co., which started the rubber raft trips down the Snake River in 1961.

THE 23-YEAR-OLD woman had worked as a boatman guiding rafts for the Frances Johnson float trips in the Tetons of western Wyoming about five years ago, but when Johnson sold his business the new owners did not want a woman boatman.

"The company wouldn't hire me because there had never been a girl boatman, so I came to the Grand Teton Lodge Co. and trained with 17 (finalists) and made the crew," Ms. Sanders explained.

She said the company did not know what to say when she applied for the boatman's job.

"They couldn't say no because I already had been a boatman, but they didn't want to say yes," Ms. Sanders said.

"Then I talked to the river boss, Bill Guheen, and he said, 'I'm going to work you harder than any guy.'

"He tried to be tough, but he spoiled me rotten."

GUHEEN SAID Ms. Sanders learned quickly how to handle the rafts, which are 33 feet long and weigh more than a ton.

Ms. Sanders said becoming accepted was hard work, but "once you're in you're in like flint."

Her male colleagues are "so fair," she said.

"If you do your work, everything runs smoothly. I work with men 12 months out of the year and I can't stand to work with women anymore."

She received her initial training in May 1976 at the start of the four-month raft season. At that time of the year the Snake is at "high water" due to the snow runoff, and the river really roars by.

"The first thing you learn is an emergency landing," said Ms. Sanders. "You have to jump off the boat and stop it. When you weigh 125 pounds, it's kind of scary."

SHE IS PAID about $38 plus tips for each 22-mile trip down the rushing waters of the Snake.

"It sure beats waitressing," she said.

Last year, she worked as rear boatman, maneuvering the raft and watching for obstacles in the river, such as rocks or tree stumps, which could tear the boat apart.

She became a skipper at the end of the season last year. The skipper is at the front of the boat and plots the course and gives nature talks to the passengers.

Ms. Sanders said she picked up the information on the Snake River wildlife and plant life by reading everything she could find. "I take pride in being able to answer all the questions."

NOW THAT SHE is a skipper and responsible for giving orders, she said she tries to command tactfully so it does not become awkward to give orders to men.

"She's steady, never loses her nerve and she also acquired knowledge of the bird and animal life on the river and can describe it to those taking the raft trip," said river boss Guheen. "We're very pleased with her — she's among the best of our crew of 23 boatmen."

Ms. Sanders said she likes the title "boatman."

"Don't call me a boatperson," she said. "I want to be part of the crew. I don't want to be alienated or separated with a different name."

AT THE END OF September, when the raft trips end for the season, Ms. Sanders, a native of Scottsdale, Ariz., cooks for elk hunting camps in the wilderness areas around Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks.

During the winter she trains quarter horses in Phoenix, Ariz., and in May she returns to Wyoming and works for a month at a ranch taking cows up to their summer pasture until she can return to the Snake River.

"Being on the Snake means being alive," she said. "I'll be a boatman until they retire me on Medicare."

Pleated waist and cuffs new look in pants for fall

This week, let's look at pants for fall. Of course, pants will still be in. They are a way of life and I don't see women ever giving them up completely.

The news seems to center around the waist and cuffs, with the "trouser" or pleated look being the newest. This refers to the soft pleats stitched or unstitched to form a slight ease just below the waist. You must refrain from over-fitting with this style pant, though, as it would spoil the effect if you had a pulled look below the waist. These pants are most suitable for tuck-in blouses. If you wear overblouses, a smooth and fitted waistline would be more suitable.

"Paper bag" pants, which have casing and are gathered with a little healing above the waist and a little gathering below, are still around. They are usually for the very young and thin figure, though.

The legs of some pants are cut more narrow, especially at the ankle. Some pants are cuffed, but most are still uncuffed. Several designers will feature "bicycle cuffs," which amount to a tab sewed at the side seam and buttoned to the pants, holding in some of the ease and giving the pants a more fitted look at the ankle. The tab is about three inches above the lower finished edge of the pants.

Some of the evening pants are actually cut on the bias and are made of satin, which gives a very fitted look to the legs.

My advice on pants will remain the same: Analyze your figure carefully before selecting the pants you will make and select a pattern that is flattering. Fashion is meant to be modified and the latest style won't do a thing for you if it doesn't flatter your body.

Dear Eunice Farmer: Recently I saw pictures of several corduroy suits that had the rib effect running horizontal instead of vertical. Is this look something new? Do we have to use a special pattern for it? — Marie B.

Dear Marie: You are very observant. All designers try new "tricks" with old favorite fabrics, and this is certainly the year for corduroy or any napped fabric. I have seen several garments made with the corduroy cut on the cross grain and I found them most attractive.

You can use a regular pattern, but instead of using the lengthwise grainline as a guide, you will cut the garment on the cross grain. It would still be very important to begin all the pieces of your pattern at the same selvage edge so they're all cut in the same direction.

Proceed to complete your garment just as if it would have been cut on the vertical.

This week's winner of the gold blazer buttons is Mrs. Dorothy Patterson, 2759 Leonard St. NW, Apt. C-7, Grand Rapids, Mich. 49504. Her tip:

"When making a pocket of lightweight fabric that is to be topstitched to a garment, cut it double and stitch it all around the outside edge.

"For turning, make a slit in the center of one side, big enough to turn the pocket right side out. Clip corners before turning. By pressing on smoothly and 'sealing' the slit with a scrap of bonding material, you'll have a nice smooth edge on all your pockets every time."

Eunice Farmer

Sew simple

Dear Eunice Farmer: I recently saw a ready-made dress I would like to copy, but it had a contrasting yoke in the back and I can't find a pattern with this same detail. There are many patterns I could use if I knew how to add a yoke. Can you help? — Maryanne W.

Dear Maryanne: Adding a yoke to a pattern really is rather simple. First decide how far down from the shoulder the yoke would look best. (Usually about four inches from the center of the shoulder would be most flattering.) Carefully mark your pattern and draw a line across it, both front and back, and cut the pattern apart on the line.

The most important part to remember is that you must add your seam allowance to each part of the cut pattern or the bodice will not be long enough. Whenever you cut a pattern apart to add a contrasting color or another detail, always be sure to add the five-eighths seam allowance to both parts.

The doctor says

Diabetic should limit starch, sugar intake

I am a diabetic and have been for 10 years. I use 30 units of Lente and eight units of Ultralente insulin each morning. I have been called a yo-yo diabetic because my monthly blood test results in a count as low as 55 to as high as 400.

Even though I am extremely careful of what I eat and get what consider a reasonable amount of exercise, the numbers come up high and this is most alarming to me. My doctor says not to worry, but I do.

Is there a guaranteed diet to follow? I hear so much about fructose, lactose, dextrose and all the rest that I am confused. What causes the extremes in sugar count even though the diet doesn't change?

I'm 51, female, 5 feet tall and weigh 120 pounds. Since I'm a shorty I would like to take off some weight but this is difficult being a diabetic and subject to insulin shock. How can I lose weight without the risk of insulin shock?

My diet consists of fish, chicken, vegetables and an occasional lamb or beef meal. Ten Years ago my weight was 102 pounds. Thank you for any advice you can give.

A diabetic's life has to be fairly well regulated in terms of diet, activity and even exposure to stress to have a constant blood sugar level if the diabetes has progressed to the point where insulin must be used.

The best advice I can give you with your story is to eliminate all starches and all sweets. Give up milk, too. Why? to get rid of all the ready sources of glucose. All of the starches and sugars are converted to simple sugars (monosaccharides) in the small intestine before they can be absorbed. If you consume foods that are rapidly converted to single sugars — which give rise to peaks in blood glucose — you will have more trouble in managing your diabetes.

Get your carbohydrates from leafy vegetables and those with bulk in them. Whole pulpy fruits may be all right, particularly apples. To follow such a diet you cust get some additional bulk someplace. You may be able to use some whole wheat bread or simply eat limited amounts of cereal containing bran. You also will need a replacement for calcium that you get in your milk.

The resulting diet that severely limits starches and sugars will be absorbed slowly from the small intestine. That will help to avoid the peaks and valleys in blood sugar, and may make it possible to regulare your insulin dosage to a better level for you. Some insulin-taking diabetics have been able to decrease the amount of insulin required markedly by eating a diet dependent upon raw fruits and vegetables, plus meats but devoid of starches and sugars.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-11, Diabetes, Diagnosis, Prevention and Managment. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. As the letter stresses, consistency is important. Even your exercise must be about the same. To help you with your weight control I would suggest you use repeated short walks spread out over the day and then stick to that schedule.

(Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.)

Family pets can suffer from heat sickness, too

For Pet Lovers: Your pets, while subject to purely canine or feline ailments, also can come down with some of the same sicknesses as humans. Heatstroke is one.

Dog owners should know how to prevent canine heat stress. The main points to know are these: Don't exercise your dog strenuously when it's hot. Walk and exercise him either very early or very late in the day. If he's the outdoors type, provide water and some shady or covered area for him to cool off.

I have instructions from a first rate veterinarian on how to deal with canine heatstroke. You're welcome to a copy, if you'll write and enclose a small, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Roberta: If you find the mango fruit a treat, I guarantee you'll love this recipe for "Mango Fluff." Puree two cups mango in a blender. Then mix in a bowl with one package dessert topping, and sugar to taste if you prefer a very sweet dessert. Chill in individual dessert bowls. Three-quarters of an hour before you plan to serve, put these in the freezer. Don't be surprised when family or guests ask for seconds. — Micheline Doguereau

Dear Roberta: Even if you carefully dry iron pans and ovenware, they still can become rusty if water droplets from another utensil fall on them. Prevent this by coating the iron with a thin layer of cooking oil. The same goes for no-stick pans that've lost their finish. — L. Ernst decides to keep the child and support it herself and then after a few years decides to give it up.

"We also get a lot of women who want to place their children for adoption and then as the pregnancy continues or the baby is born, they decide to keep the baby," he said.

ALL OF IT seems to add up to a continuing lack of healthy white babies for adoption, even if the administration proposal were adopted.

But agency representatives were almost unanimous in their support for the second part of the proposal to provide subsidies to families who adopt "hard-to-place" children.

Illinois has a similar program, but it is more limited. The federal program probably would augment it.

"Using the state experience," Ragland said, "I would think the subsidy program would help the hard-to-place child. When state subsidies came in, foster parents began adopting the children more often."

Arbit said she wasn't sure how much of an effect it would have in Illinois because of the state program, but felt it would help the situation in states where no such programs exist.

Next on the agenda

American Business Women, O'Hare Ten Charter Chapter, 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at home of Mrs. Margaret Myres, Mount Prospect. Summer picnic, with speaker, Ms. Julie Ikler of Pesche Garden Center, discussing "Plant Multiplying and General Care." 394-8017.

Suburban Single Mothers, 8 p.m. Tuesday at Lincoln Federal Savings, Hoffman Estates. Leanne Levchuk, Hoffman Estates family counselor will talk on "Communication with your Child." 884-1239.

La Leche League of Arlington Heights, 8 p.m. Tuesday, Ross Spencer home. "Nutrition and Weaning." 392-7636.

Junior clubwomen cited

In recognition of contributions made to area communities, Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Streamwood have designated the week of Aug. 15 as Junior Clubwoman Week.

The proclamation honors clubwomen for their contributions of time and service on behalf of the communities and seeks to encourage the involvement of interested women as each club begins its fall membership drive.

Clubs in the named suburbs are members of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the largest women's organization in the world, according to Barbara Sheldon, 7th district junior director. Each club can draw upon resources of the GFWC for current information and ideas which can be applied to the needs of their individual community and clubwomen, said Mrs. Sheldon.

AREAS OF service include arts, conservation, education, health, home life, public and international affairs. While each club may emphasize different areas from time to time, all clubs provide the opportunity for members to participate in their own area of interest, Mrs. Sheldon pointed out.

Arlington Juniors will be holding coffees at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 23, and also on Tuesday, Aug. 30, in the home of Judy Smith. All young women under 40 years are invited to hear club officers explain projects, activities and achievements of the club, which is 43 years old.

Programs for the year will include such topics as "Zero Vandalism Project" in Arlington Heights, self protection against crime, hypnotism and a musical presentation by Hersey High's student group, "On Stage."

Those wishing to attend an Arlington Heights Junior coffee or wishing further club information may call 253-5899 or 394-3459.

BUFFALO GROVE Juniors will sponsor "An Evening with Juniors" Wednesday, Sept. 28. Interested women may call 541-7241.

Des Plaines Juniors have already sponsored one affair for new and prospective members, an ice cream social in July. However, two more socials are planned: a wine and cheese tasting party for Saturday, Aug. 20, which is also for husbands; and a Thursday, Sept. 8, fondue party for area young women.

Those interested in further club information are invited to call Lovey Offerly at 298-8910.

ELK GROVE JUNIORS membership coffees will be held Monday, Aug. 22, Thursday, Aug. 25, and Tuesday, Sept. 6. The number to call is 956-8644.

Mount Prospect Juniors will hold "An Afternoon with Juniors" Sunday, Sept. 11. Reservations and information are available by calling 394-3253.

Prospect Heights Juniors have chosen Thursday, Sept. 8, as the date for a membership tea. Area women may call 259-8406 for further information.

Streamwood Juniors have not set a definite date, but will be holding a get-together the end of September, and those interestered may call 830-0453.

Weddings

Beatrix Molitor—Randall John DiVito

Randall John DiVito met Beatrix Molitor when he was hospitalized for a football injury and Bea was the admitting nurse.

The couple repeated marriage vows July 23 in Siebert Chapel of Carthage College in Kenosha, Wis. Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald DiVito, Arlington Heights, and a graduate of Prospect High, was graduated from Carthage in May and is now with Clow Corp., Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Bea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig A. Molitor, Kenosha, is a graduate of the Gateway Technical Institute School of Practical Nursing and until her marriage was employed at Kenosha Memorial Hospital.

Before settling in Oskaloosa, Randy and Bea honeymooned in Hawaii.

FOR THE 5:30 p.m. double ring wedding Bea chose Shawn Hogan as her maid of honor, and her sisters, Ange and Diane, her sister-in-law, Jane Molitor, Catherine Fulmer and Lynn Wiginton, all of Kenosha, as bridesmaids.

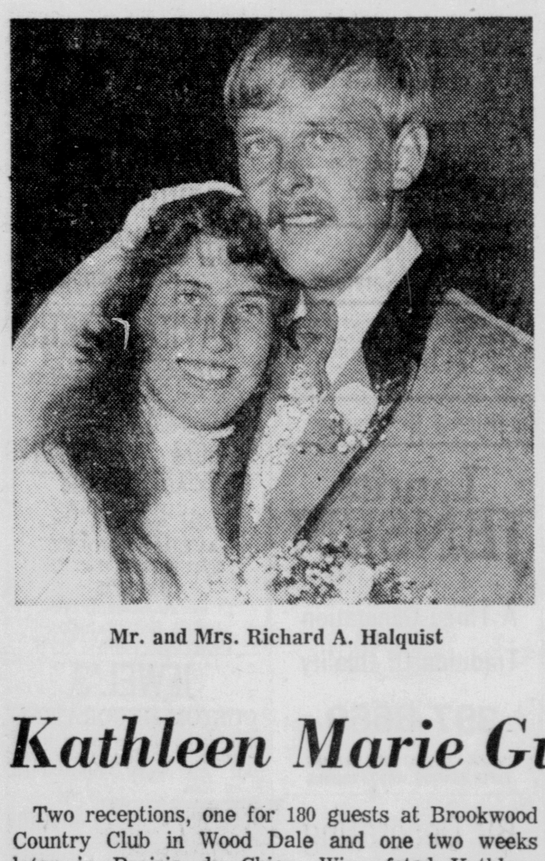

Best man was Bob Horwath, Arlington Heights, and ushers were Butch Macchia, Crystal Lake; Kurt Lehrmann, Kenosha; the bride's brother, Lou, and Cal Korpela of Milwaukee; Phil Janda, Hoffman Estates; and the groom's brother, Gary, Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall J. DiVito

The ceremony was followed by a reception for 250 in the Bristol Oaks Country Club in Bristol, Wis.

Donna Lee Jutzy—Richard Allen Halquist

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Halquist

An anniversary candle lighting ceremony was included in the wedding of Donna Lee Jutzy and Richard Allen Halquist, at which the groom's uncle, the Rev. Edward Summerfield, officiated, with the groom's father assisting. Richard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Halquist of Galesburg, Ill. are former Schaumburg residents.

The 3 p.m. double-ring wedding took place July 9 at First Baptist Church, South Bend. Donna, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Jutzy of Temple, Texas, chose Leslie Ambrose of Dallas as her maid of honor. The groom's cousins, Martha Jewel of Indianapolis, and Shelley Satterlee of Mishawaka, Ind., were bridesmaids.

Richard's brother, Mark of Chatsworth, Calif., was best man. Others in the groom's party were his brother, Jack; and Dallas Ambrose of St. Joseph, Mich. A reception for 50 guests was held in the church parlors.

Donna holds a degree from Valencia College, Orlando, Fla. and works for Home Assets in Kissimmee, Fla., where they reside. Richard, a 1973 graduate of Schaumburg High School, was trained at the Fire Department Training Academy in Orlando and works for the Kissimmee Fire Department.

Kathleen Marie Gustke — Dale W. Pettit

Two receptions, one for 180 guests at Brookwood Country Club in Wood Dale and one two weeks later in Prairie du Chien, Wis., feted Kathleen Marie Gustke and Dale W. Pettit. Newlyweds of July 16, Kathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Gustke, Arlington Heights, and Dale is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pettit, Prairie du Chien.

Setting for the 6 p.m. double ring service was First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights with Kathy wearing a gown of silk organza and lace with an elbow-length veil. She carried a white orchid with stephanotis and ivy.

LINDA GUSTKE was her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were her sister, Marie, and her former roommate from Western Illinois University, Sue Dreffein of LaGrange Park. All wore blue and white halter gowns in a flower print with matching capes and carried light blue carnations and bachelor buttons with baby's breath.

The groom chose his brother, Donald of Dubuque, Iowa, as best man, and ushers weree Paul Steinberg, Gary Clanton and Duane Dyke, all of Prarie du Chien, and John Drew, St. Paul, Minn.

The couple honeymooned in Yellowstone Park and at Jackson Hole, Wyo. for two weeks, before the second reception which featured two 200-pound pigs.

Kathy and Dale are making their home in Prairie du Chien where Dale, a graduate of Prairir High, is employed at the Prairie Marina, and where Kathy teaches high school across the Mississippi river in Garnavillo, Iowa. Kathy is a '71 graduate of Hersey High and a '75 graduate of Western.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale W. Pettit

Rosemary Carpenter—James Francsis Jr.

Rosemary Kay Carpenter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earsel Carpenter, Pekin, Ill., became the bride of Theodore James Francsis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Francsis, Mount Prospect, July 9 in Pekin's St. Paul United Church of Christ.

Both Theodore, a '72 graduate of Forest View High, and his bride are '76 graduates of Illinois State University. Until her marriage Rosemary was a learning disabilities teacher in Villa Park. The bridegroom is a field claims investigator for Sentry Insurance, Chicago, and the newlyweds are living in Lombard.

Rosemary chose Linda Schoebein, Pekin, as her maid of honor for the 4 p.m. double ring service, and Mrs. David Stark, Pawnee, Ill., Mrs. Robert Heisley, Lexington, Ky., and the groom's sister, Kathy, as bridesmaids. Her niece, Jody Carpenter, 7, Peoria, was flower girl.

SCOTT McGOVNEY, Mount Prospect, was best man, and groomsmen were the groom's cousin, Michael LaSusa, Dupo, Ill., David Voigts, Bloomington, and the groom's brother, Ken. Ushers were Matthew Boldt, Mundelein, Robert Brittain, Westchester, Richard Lindemeyer, Hickory Hills, and Steve Godlewski, Arlington Heights.

The couple honeymooned in Colorado following the wedding and a buffet reception for 210 held in the Pekin Holiday Inn.

Maureen O'Hara—David Alan Easley

Mr. and Mrs. David A. Easley

Maureen Patricia O'Hara and her bridegroom, David Alan Easley, newlyweds of July 16, are now residing in Evanston where both are working on doctorate degrees, Maureen in finance and David in economics.

Maureen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Redmond J. O'Hara, Arlington Heights, was graduated from Sacred Heart of Mary High and in 1975 from the University of Illinois. David, a '74 graduate of the University of Kentucky, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan E. Easley, Paris, Ky.

The pair's wedding, which took place during a 10:30 a.m. nuptial mass, in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, was followed by a reception for 100 at Nordic Hills Country Club. Maureen and David then honeymooned a week at French Lick, Ind.

A WHITE LINEN gown with short Venise lace sleeves was worn by Maureen for the double ring service. The same lace trimmed her skirt, chapel train, headpiece and short veil. She wore her great-grandmother's gold brooch, and carried white carnations and mums with pink roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

Mary Noreen McHale, Arlington Heights, was maid of honor and her halter gown and capelet were in green with a pink flower print. In identical gowns were the bridesmaids, Sue Blandford, Mount Prospect, Melba Wayne, Homewood and Mary Bullington, Chicago. They carried pink roses, miniature pompons and carnations with baby's breath and ivy.

Daryl Easley was his brother's best man, and ushers were the bride's brother, Eugene, david Small, Evanston, and John Cranfield, a cousin of the groom from Lexington, Ky.

Diet Workshop

The Diet Workshop will hold Open House on Tuesday, Aug. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Holiday Inn, Algonquin Road at Route 53. The public is invited to attend.

Part-time nurses needed

Newest service of the North Suburban Association for Health Resources (NSAHR) is the Medical Registry, a pool of qualified registered nurses and health care professionals on a temporary on-call basis.

At a time when 64 per cent of Illinois hospitals report support staff shortages, an estimated 4,500 local registered nurses are on inactive status because of homemaking and family needs. The Medical Registry offers them flexible scheduling, competitive salaries and placement at the hospital of their choice among those affiliated with NSAHR.

Member hospitals contact the Registry to fill temporary staffing needs and offer on location orientation. Hospitals currently using the service are Lutheran General, Lake Forest, St. Francis and Skokie Valley. It is available also to Alexian Brothers, Evanston Community, Condell, Evanston, Forest, Highland Park, Holy Family, Resurrection and Northwest Community.

The NSAHR and Medical Registry, 1500 Shermer Rd., Northbrook, will relocate to Milwaukee Avenue in Glenview early in September. More information may be obtained by calling 498-1180 weekdays.

Become a Sherwin-Williams Assistant Store Manager Now!

Your high school education and ideally SOME college and retail sales business experience, with emphasis on accounting and credit, could have prepared you to take advantage of a retail management opportunity in the exciting paints and home decorating field. Your schedule is flexible to include Saturday and evening work.

Working closely with your store manager, and following an on-the job training program, you would:

- Assume delegated credit, accounting responsibilities involved in a Store operation.
- Develop increased store-wide sales through the use of approved selling techniques.
- Manage the Store in the absence of the Manager.

Your resume or letter should show a good track record of aggressive effort and achievement in your educational and work experience. Send us the details and your compensation requirements.

MY First owner didn't take good care of me. Will you give me that second chance in life? My name is Twister. I'm called that because my side was burned terribly when found and I could only walk in circles. I'm healed now but I still bear the scars of my ordeal. I think I may be Dob. Shepherd mix, about 1 yr. old male and I love people. If you are interested in me or my other homeless friends call Society of St. Francis, 259-6680.

BUICK, 68 Special,

Texas hampers Sox' attempt to hike lead

ARLINGTON, Tex. — The White Sox, with a golden opportunity to gain ground on the American League West Division contenders, blew a six-run first-inning lead. Texas tied it in the second and forged a 9-6 lead in the sixth.

Ralph Garr's solo homer in the seventh rallied the Sox to within 9-7. A loss by the Sox would further tighten the West race so that the four leading teams would be within 1½ games of the top.

Texas added two more in the seventh and one in the eighth to lead the Sox, 12-7.

RBI singles by Jorge Orta and Lamar Johnson weren't enough as the Sox fell, 12-9.

With two out and two on in the bottom of the first inning, the White Sox chased Texas starter Nelson Briles with a string of four consecutive hits. The final one was Eric Soderholm's 18th home run, a three-run blast capping a six-run outburst.

While the six-run uprising appeared to be the White Sox' answer to gain ground on both Kansas City and Minnesota who had lost earlier in the day, Texas didn't lie down.

After tying the score at 6-6 in the second, Texas jumped ahead for the first time, 7-6, on a run scoring double by Toby Harrah off Sox reliever Bart Johnson.

SOX STARTER Jack Kucek, who earned his way into the starting rotation with several fine relief appearances, suffered the most by the Sox's 20-minute hitting spree in the first.

Texas' Mike Hargrove, who hits his best against the White Sox, opened the Rangers first with his eighth home run of the year. Hargrove's homer was his fifth hit against the Sox's this season and two more than last year's total of six.

An error by Bannister on Bert Campaneria' grounder and singles by Grieve and Harrah gave Texas an additional two runs in the first and cut the White Sox lead to 6-3.

Two walks hurt Kucek in the second as he faced Claudell Washington with two on and two out. A strike out victim in the first, Washington clubbed a 2-2 count to deep centerfield for a three-run homer.

THE FIRST TWO innings took nearly an hour to play with a total of 12 runs and 14 hits by both teams.

Again the walk was the Sox nemisis in the sixth as Johnson walked Campaneris to lead off the inning, who later scored on singles by Washington and Grieve. Leading 8-6, and now facing Dave Hamilton, the Rangers were given a gift run on a swinging strike out by Harrah. The out should have retired the inning but was misplayed by Essian as another run scored, 9-6.

Arlington advances to finals

by DON FRISKE

GALESBURG — This time around, the Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team is taking the right steps in the process of playing a double-elimination tournament.

By defeating Rock Island 8-7 Sunday, in the conclusion of a suspended game, Arlington won a spot in the state championship scheduled for 10 a.m. today against Granite City here.

The game was set up when Granite City beat Rock Island, 3-1, Sunday night in the loser's bracket. Arlington is the only undefeated team.

ONLY TWO victories put Arlington in the title contest, quite a contrast to tre way the team proceeded through the Cook County Tournament. After losing the opening game in the county, Arlington had to win four straight games to earn the title.

That's what Granite City will have to do to take the title from Arlington. They fell into the loser's bracket Friday afternoon in their opening game, but came back to eliminate Galesburg, Barrington and Rock Island.

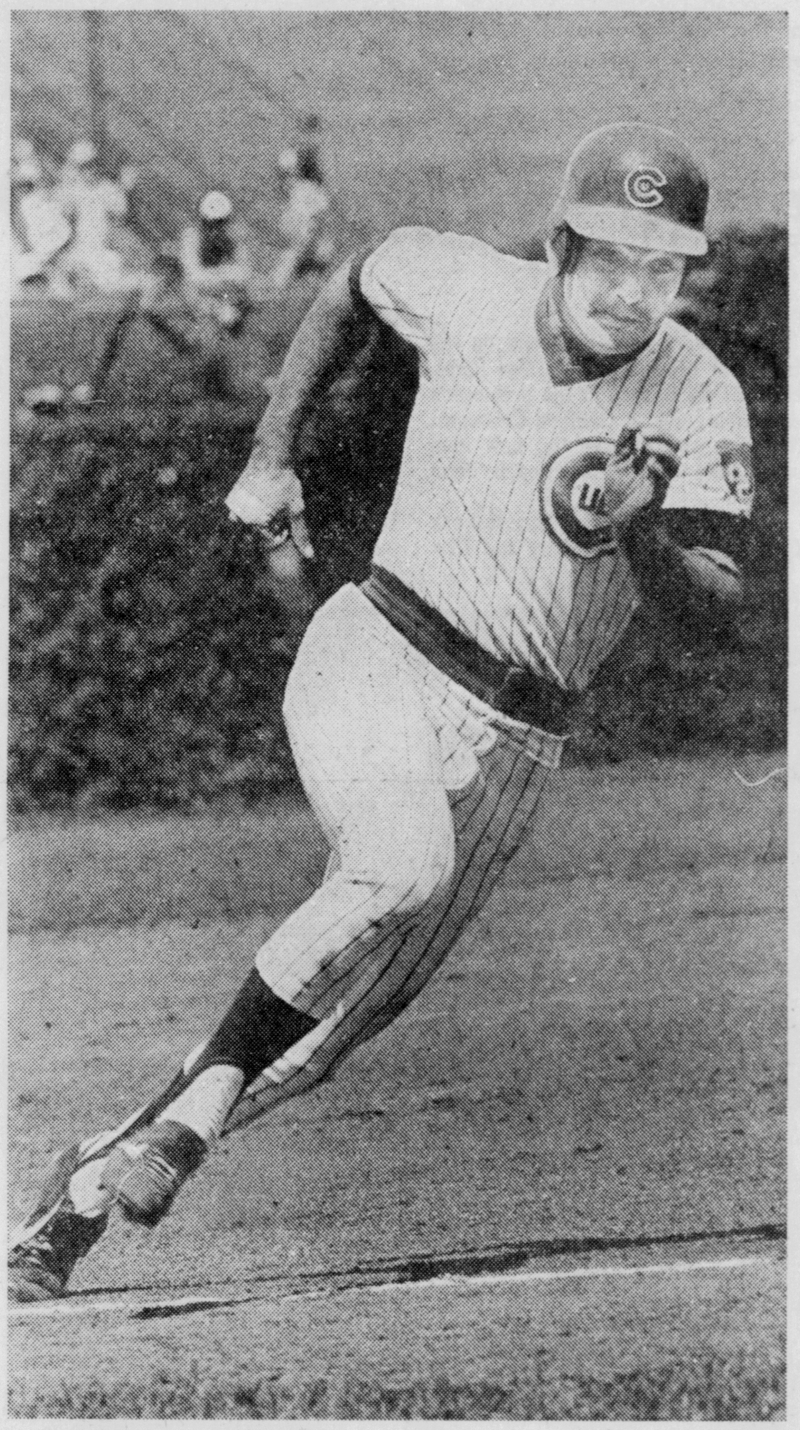

Arlington was given a scare by Rock Island in the bottom of the ninth when the winning run came to the plate with three already in. All were unearned against Todd Walker, who relieved Dennis Drolet, starting Sunday's action.

The game was suspended with two outs in the Rock Island seventh Saturday night when the third downpour of the evening halted play. Arlington was leading, 5-4.

WALKER WAS working on his seventh straight strikeout when the trouble began in the ninth. Kurt Renendo reached on an error that would have been the game. The next two batters singled before another Arlington error allowed Rock Island's last run to score.

The game ended with Walker finally

Phils take doubleheader

by ART MUGALIAN

Like Marc Anthony, the Philadelphia Phillies came to town with burying on their minds. They did such a good job, in fact, with 10-2 and 4-2 victories Sunday at Wrigley Field, that they just might have laid the Cubs to rest for the balance of the 1977 season.

The Phils came, they saw, and they conquered.

The double loss dropped the Cubs seven full games behind the Phillies, who won their 11th and 12th straight games behind the pitching of Larry Christenson and Jim Lonberg and the hitting of Mike Schmidt (of course) and Ted Sizemore (why not?).

THE CUBS ARE JUST percentage points ahead of fourth-place St. Louis in the NL East standings. Pittsburgh is now in second, 3½ games back.

"Oh dear," said a saddened manager Herman Franks after the disastrous four-game sweep. "God, when it rains, it pours, doesn't it?"

The Phillies came to town three games ahead of their nearest opposition, the Cubs, and they left with 12 home runs, 34 runs and an all-time Philadelphia record for winning streaks.

The big gun in the first game was, again, third baseman Schmidt. He belted his 29th and 30th home runs and added a single and a double for six RBIs. He led a 13-hit attack that caused an early exit for Cub starter Mike Krukow and made things unpleasant for a pair of relievers.

STEVE RENKE STARTED the nightcap for the Cubs and was given a 1-0 lead right off the bat on an RBI single by Bill Buckner, who had four hits Sunday. But Renke made a mistake to Greg Luzinski, the Prospect Heights strongboy, and it resulted in Luzinski's 31st homer, a towering drive to left-center leading off the second inning.

The Cubs recovered the lead in the bottom of the inning on a two-out single by Steve Swisher and a double to the vines in left by Mick Kelleher. But again the Phils tied it, this time on a base-loaded sacrifice fly by Sizemore, the No. 8 hitter, in the fourth inning.

It was Sizemore, again, doing the damage in the sixth. With one away, Bob Boone reached second base despite a great diving attempt by Larry Biittner in left. Sizemore, one of the lesser names on a team of superstars, punched a ground single through the middle to send Boone home with the winning run.

The Phillies added insurance in the eighth on a run-scoring pinch single by Dave Johnson, Saturday's Cub nemesis.

"NOTHING GOES right," complained Franks. "I walked Sizemore all day but if I walk him there they might hit for the pitcher. I'd rather pitch to Sizemore. But when you're in their kind of streak, everything goes good."

The Cubs have now lost five in a row and 12 of their last 16 games. More incredibly, since June 28 when they held an 8½-game lead in the East, they have dropped 29 of 45 for a swing of 15½ games in the standings.

The terrible rash of Cub injuries has plagued Franks, but the Cub boss hopes the worst is over. "Maybe we'll be at full strength Tuesday," he said, contemplating the day off. "Bonham says he's ready to pitch now."

Franks listed Bill Bonham, Rick Reuschel and perhaps Dave Roberts as the probables in the Pirate series that starts Tuesday at Wrigley Field. He also hopes to have Jerry Morales back in the lineup.

"IT'S NOT OVER until the last out of the last game," said Cub outfielder Bobby Murcer, who was 0-for-7 Sunday. "At least that's what they told me. We've got seven weeks left — we lost the lead in less time than that.

Arlington Park Race Track in late 1950s is circumscribed by cars and fans.

Arlington Park—dreams blossom into racing giant

Arlington Park 50th anniversary

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles saluting the 50th anniversary of Arlington Park Race Track)

by JEFF NORDLUND

It took the dream of one man, the hard work of another and the pride of a third to make Arlington Park Race Track what it has been for 50 years — the home of some of America's great thoroughbreds and jockeys.

Those men, Californian Curley Brown, cab company chairman John D. Hertz and Chicago race man Benjamin F. Lindheimer, established Arlington Park as a front-runner since 1927.

THOUGH its age ranks it with the most mature tracks in the country, Arlington Park is beginning its second 50 years as a modern and attractive facility — exactly what the braintrust had in mind when the plans were first laid for the track in 1927.

It was Brown who supplied the initiative to build what the Oct. 14, 1927, Arlington Heights Herald called, "the greatest race course in America and one of the greatest in the world."

The construction of Northwest Hwy. earlier in the '20s opened the Arlington Heights area to Chicagoans, who then had an easy route to travel the 20 miles from downtown. The suburb was also serviced by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad.

Brown envisioned an "Equestrian Center" to be built over the giant plot. He foresaw not only the grandstand and track, but polo fields, tennis courts and golf courses to be constructed too.

YET HE was in a hurry, so the other forms of recreation took a back seat as he pushed for completion of the track and grandstand by the fall of 1927, in order to get some racing dates before the new year.

The mammoth construction job went quickly, and the track opened Oct. 13, even though the first earth was not moved until June 27.

The finished grandstand and clubhouse held 18,000 and two racing strips were built, one inside the other — a 1-1/8 mile main track and a mile inside track.

While more construction continued through the winter and spring, and a new season began in 1928. Brown began to differ in opinion with his board of directors. Complaints over his financial dealings surfaced. Fans also felt the races were fixed and the proper percentage of the bets was not being returned in the winnings.

AS SENTIMENT against Brown grew, the Californian's health began to fail and he put his interest up for sale. At the same time, organized crime was reported to be trying to buy its way into the track.

Twenty minutes after a critical meeting, a group headed by John D. Hertz raised $2 million of the sale price of $2.5 million to thwart mobsters' attempts to buy into the track. The deal was closed Jan. 5, 1929, beginning a decade of growth at Arlington Park under Hertz' leadership.

In order to sterilize the track's tarnished image, Hertz initiated the Australian tote system in 1929 and the totally-electronic American Totalisator in 1933. This eliminated the charge the odds were illegally altered.

By the end of the '30s the aging Hertz was spending all his time in New York and was growing out of touch with the track. In April, 1940, a group headed by Benjamin F. Lindheimer, director of fortunes at Washington Park, bought the track for $1.6 million.

FOR THE FIRST time, Lindheimer coordinated the racing meets at Arlington and Washington parks. He also spent the next 20 years trying to keep Arlington Park at the top of thoroughbred racing's hierarchy by drawing the biggest names in horses and jockeys.

Feeling the pinch by Eastern tracks which were raising their stakes after the war years, Lindheimer responded by boosting Arlington Park's. He also enlarged the stable area, improved the parking facilities and raised the seating capacity to 30,000.

Lindheimer died June 5, 1960, and the track was managed by his adopted daughter, Marje Everett Lindheimer in 1961. Thinking the facility should be used more during the off season, she instituted a program designed to make it a year-round convention center.

A large show area behind the grandstand and a 13-story hotel were formulated. In 1969 she agreed to a merger with Gulf and Western Industries. To further increase track revenue, she allowed Arlington Heights to annex the track in exchange for permission to race at night.

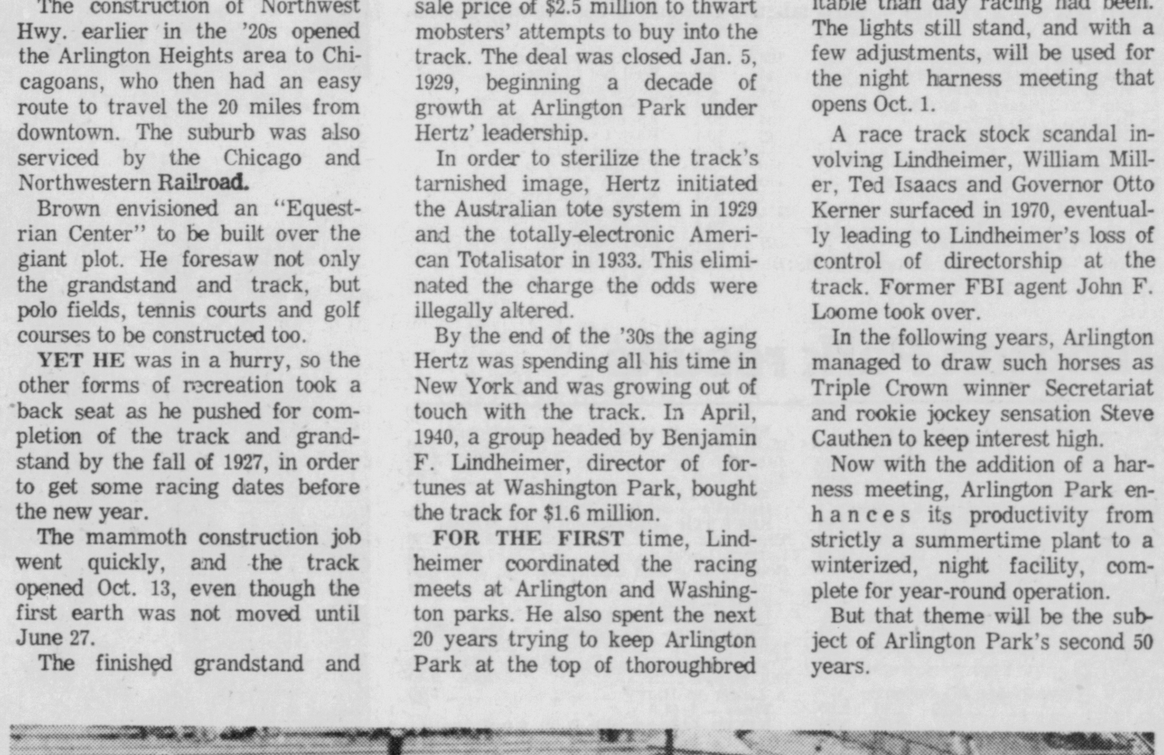

LIGHTS WERE installed in 1969, but the several experimental race dates proved to be less profitable than day racing had been. The lights still stand, and with a few adjustments, will be used for the night harness meeting that opens Oct. 1.

A race track stock scandal involving Lindheimer, William Miller, Ted Isaacs and Governor Otto Kerner surfaced in 1970, eventually leading to Lindheimer's loss of control of directorship at the track. Former FBI agent John F. Loome took over.

In the following years, Arlington managed to draw such horses as Triple Crown winner Secretariat and rookie jockey sensation Steve Cauthen to keep interest high.

Now with the addition of a harness meeting, Arlington Park enhances its productivity from strictly a summertime plant to a winterized, night facility, complete for year-round operation.

But that theme will be the subject of Arlington Park's second 50 years.

Before tractors, strapping Belgian horses helped smooth the racing surface.

Arlington reaches finals getting his seventh out — all by strikeouts.

But the inning saw Arlington errors grow to eight in the game, seven during the last four innings.

"We really played a poor ball game," said Arlington coach Lloyd Meyer. "This was probably the poorest game that any of my teams have played in the state tournament. We gave them everything they got. But we still have good pitching left, and nobody has scored on us yet with hitting."

BOB HUBER will start today's game. If Arlington loses, another contest will follow immediately with Kevin McBride twirling for Arlington. McBride won the opener, 12-1, against host Galesburg.

"Nobody in this tournament has hit a whole lot, so the key to this game will be good defense," Meyer said.

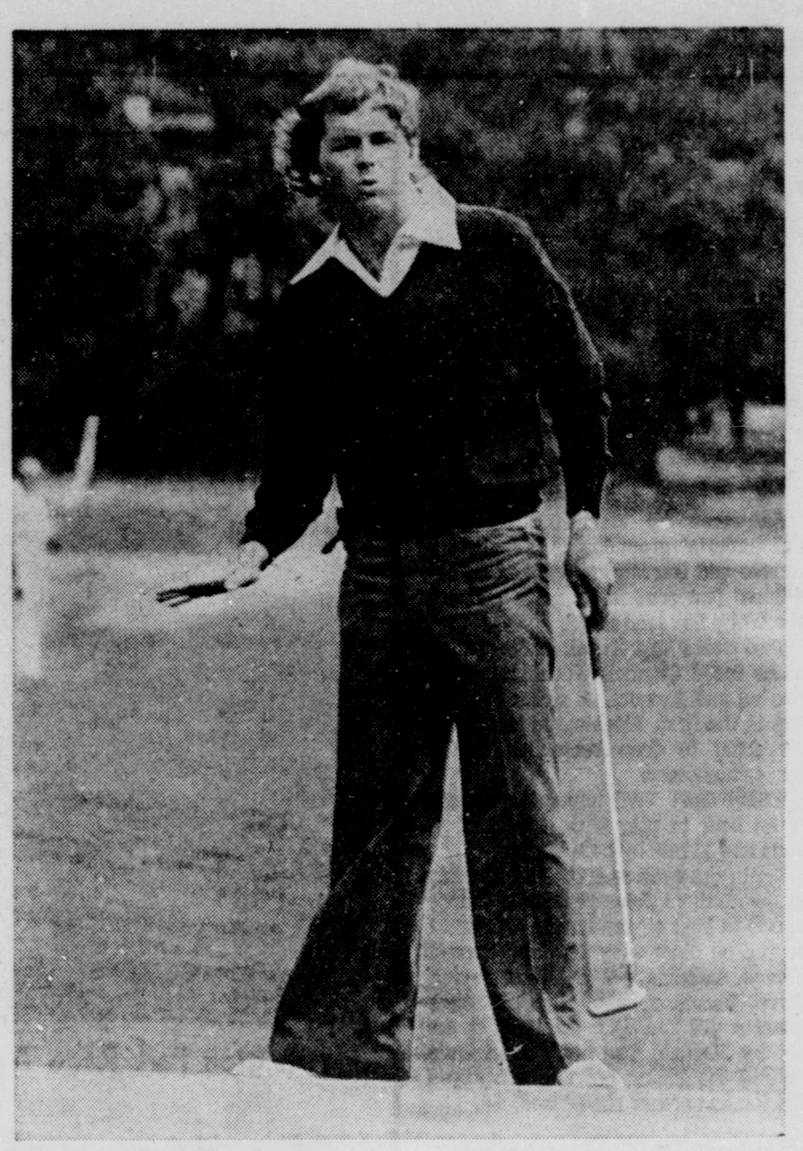

"We're unbelievalbe after two out," Meyer said, after Arlington scored seven of their eight runs in that fashion. "A lot of that has to do with spirit. If you don't have anybody on base, there's no pressure on the pitcher. But when you get a runner on with two outs, the banch comes to life, and that's when people make errors in the field."

Rock Island pulled the same thing on Arlington when two comeback attempts fell short. But they had the Arlington coach worried.

"I don't know how much more of this I can take," Meyer said.

ARLINGTON WILL put Meyer's nerves to the test this morning and if play continues into the afternoon, it will mean that the defending champs are going down to the wire one more time.

The winner of today's action will advance to the Great Lakes Regional tournament in Bellwood, Ill., beginning Aug. 24.

SUDDEN DEATH — Lanny Wadkins won the PGA Tournament at Pebble Beach, Calif. Sunday after beating Gene Litler in a three-hole, sudden-death playoff.

Wadkins beats Littler in PGA

by IRA MILLER

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Lanny Wadkins, a youngster whose career almost was ended by illness, won the PGA Championship Sunday when Gene Littler, who blew a five stroke lead with nine holes left, bogeyed the third hole of a sudden death playoff.

Jack Nicklaus was a disappointed third, one stroke behind. He failed to mount any kind of a threat and — when finally handed a chance to tie for the title — made a bogey at the 71st hole.

The playoff, first sudden-death ever in a major championship as the result of a PGA rules change this year, ended when the 27-year-old Wadkins made an 8-foot putt to save par on the 388-yard third hole.

WADKINS, THE U.S. Amateur champion in 1970 whose professional career was interrupted by surgery on his gall bladder and appendix, dropped his putter and did a victory jig. Littler, 20 years his senior, embraced him.

Littler had led since the first day, but had a final round 4-over-par 76 while Wadkins had 70. Littler, who played the back nine Sunday in 41, had to make a 10-foot par putt on the 17th green just to gt into the playoff.

But at the third hole, one which both players had bogeyed earlier in the day, Littler left his 9-iron approach shot short. He yelled "run, run, run, run. run" at the ball but it did not respond. Then he stubbed his chip shot and left a 15-foot attempt for par short.

He never got to putt out.

WADKINS HAD finished a half-hour ahead of Littler, in the last threesome on the course, and made an 18-inch birdie putt on the famed 18th hole, 548 narrow yards of terror that abut Carmel Bay.

Their 72-hole scores, 282, were six under par. Nicklaus, who played so steadily all weekend he made only six bogeys in the tournament — one less than Littler had Sunday alone — had 73 for 283.

Wadkins made a 12-foot putt for par on the first hole of sudden death after dumping his approach shot into the tall grass at the left of the green. Both players made easy, routine birdies on the 502-yard, par-5 second hole, hitting the green with irons and taking two putts from around 20-25 feet.

At the third hole, Wadkins' approach flew the green into heavy rough. He chipped eight feet left of the hole — and then sank the putt that gave him the $45,000 first prize, earned him his fourth victory on the pro tour, a spot in the field for the rich World Series of Golf Labor Day weekend at Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio, and a place on the U.S. Ryder Cup team that meets the British next month in England, bumping 59 shooter Al Geiberger from the team. He now has earned $138,919 in 1977 and $577,380 in a career that began in 1971.

Bears avenge setback at Oakland

OAKLAND, Calif. — Rookie safety Steve Jackson thinks the Oakland Raiders' first loss in 14 games was "all my fault," but veteran guard Gene Upshaw says the Chicago Bears won because of different priorities.

Chicago beat the defending world champions 20-13 Saturday, handing Oakland its first loss since Oct. 3, 1976, when New England pounded out a 48-17 victory.

The Raiders used everyone on the roster but injured players Ted Kwalick and Jeff Barnes in the pre-season exhibition game at Oakland Coliseum. The idea was to give the new men experience, said Head Coach John Madden.

FOR INSTANCE, star quarterback Kenny Stabler played only the first two series, completing eight of nine passes for 81 yards, then sat out the remainder of the contest while Oakland's three reserve signal-callers got in their licks.

Chicago, on the other hand, went with its first string most of the way. Some, like linebacker Waymond Bryant and cornerback Allan Ellis, went the distance.

"The Bears wanted it pretty bad, sticking with their regulars as long as they did," said Upshaw.

"But that's their coach's decision. If they want to win the Grapefruit League, that's OK. Our game plan always has been to look at all our people."

ROOKIES OR NOT, the loss didn't sit well with Madden.

"It's been a long time since we had one of those," he said, noting it could have gone either way. "We were in good position several times but didn't score."

The Bears "have a different philosophy," Madden said.

"They play their regulars more, which is good for us because we can see how a Mickey Marvin blocks against one of their veterans."

The score was knotted 13-13 with 1:38 left to play when Chicago quarterback Mike Phipps hit Randall Burks on a 60-yard touchdown pass that sank last year's Super Bowl champions.

"IT WAS MY fault, all mine," lamented free agent rookie Jackson, who was so far out of the play few of the 52,900 fans knew he should have stopped the action.

"I was supposed to cover the deep third of the field on that side, but I looked over the middle at the tight end for a split second and by the time I looked again the ball was gone. It was too late."

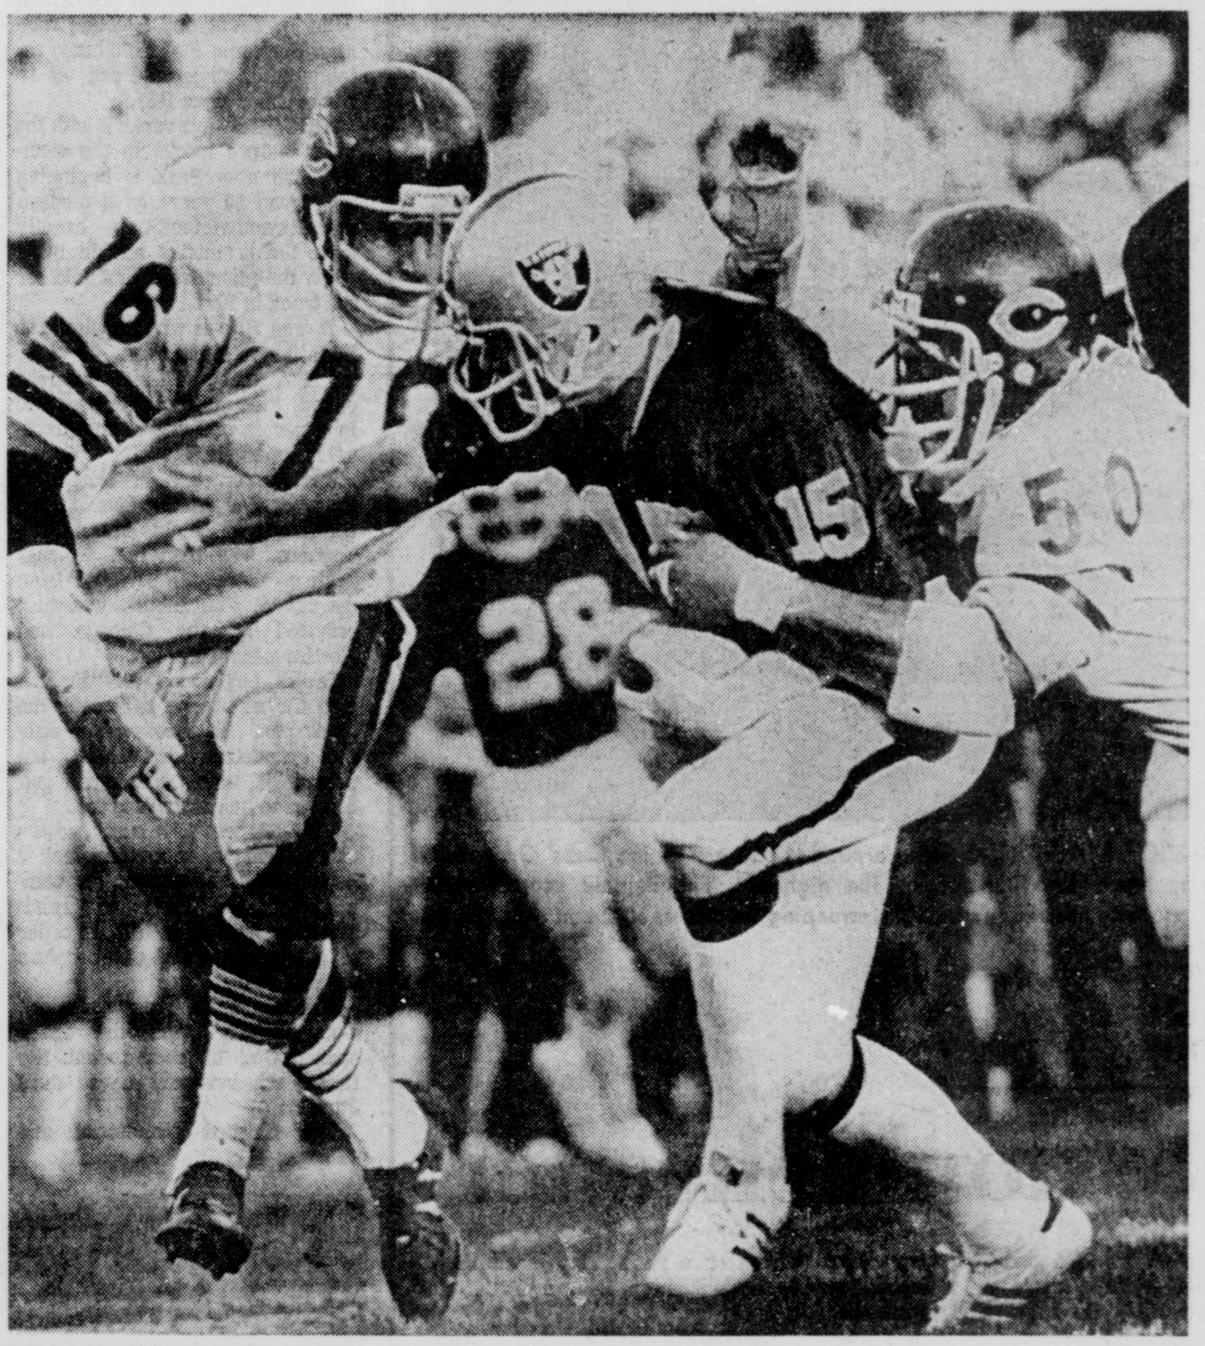

Possibly even more frustrated was Fred Steinfort, the second year kicker who forced superstar George Blanda into retirement last season.

Steinfort was waived a few hours before the game and sat it out in a motel room, hoping some other team would pick him up.

"It came out of the blue and I was quite shocked," Steinfort said.

He has been battling 10-year veteran Errol Mann and rookie Rolf Benirschke for the Raiders' kicking honors.

Benirschke booted a 27-yard field goal against the Bears that gave the Raiders a 10-7 lead in the second quarter. He later added a 30-yard field goal.

QUARTERBACK SMEAR. Oakland Raider backup quarterback Mike Rae is about to become an NFL sandwich, with Bears Ron Rydalch (76) and Waymond Bryant (50) providing the bread. The Bears beat the Raiders, 20-13 in an exhibition game Saturday night.

Cubs fumble doubleheader

And we've got six games left with the Phillies.

"But they just beat us bad," Murcer reflected. "They beat us bad — they rubbed our faces in the dirt. Are they the best team in baseball? Right now they are."

With 12 wins in a row, the Phils broke a club record of 11, set in 1955.

In the first game, Philadelphia's Larry Christenson became an 11-game winner (he's lost five) with a route-going performance on a yield of just four base hits. The tall righthander had allowed only a pair of singles by Buckner until the ninth when he gave up the two Cub runs.

Krukow, now 7-10 retired the first nine Phillies he faced, striking out two of them and appearing in total command. The fourth inning, though, was a nightmare for the rookie righthander and the Cubs.

BAKE McBRIDE STARTED the rally by slashing a single past Steve Ontiveros at third. After Larry Bowa flied out, McBride stole second and scored a moment later on a single to center by Schmidt. Luzinski stroked a hit, Hebner singled for the second run of the inning and McCarver doubled past first base for the final run. Philadelphia led 3-0.

Schmidt, the three-time NL homer king, had only just begun to hit. He slammed a two-run homer off Krukow in the fifth inning after Bowa had singled. He doubled over Biittner's head in left to open the two-run eighth and he put a three-run home run onto Waveland Ave. to cap the scoring in the ninth, that one coming off Paul Reuschel.

Paddock golf tourney very 'Convenient'

by JEFF NORDLUND

Convenient Foods, led by two subpar net scores and two others in the 70s, won the 28th Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Tournament at Buffalo Grove Golf Course Sunday.

The four-man team's adjusted total was 284, five strokes ahead of second place St. Alphonsus.

The Convenient team of Doug Erickson, John Petersen, Harvy Bartholomew and Otto Heimann ended Wickes Furniture's two-year hold on the team title.

AT 289, St. Alphonsus was the only other team to finish near par. Roger Foehringer, Bill Reet, Harry Tabel and Dennis DeSort comprised the runnerup team.

Mobil Oil was third at 304. That team was composed of Howard Holcomb, Harlan Tarbell, Dave Hutchings, and John Pleasant.

Wickes Furniture was fourth at 309, followed by the 10th Holer and Stewart Tile at 310.

DeSort of St. Alphonsus and Convenient's Erickson tied for the low net honor at 61. DeSort, whose handicap is 20, shot 81. Erickson has an 18 handicap and carded 79.

"That was probably 10 strokes better than my best 18-hole total this year," DeSort said. "I hit 11 greens, but didn't really putt that well. I probably could have shaved a few more strokes there."

DeSort played Buffalo Grove frequently when he was in high school as a member of Hersey's golf team.

"I PLAYED OUT of my head," Erickson said. "I sank four, 30-foot putts and only took 30 putts the entire round.

"I hit some good fairway bunker shots, and just kept the ball in play," Erickson said.

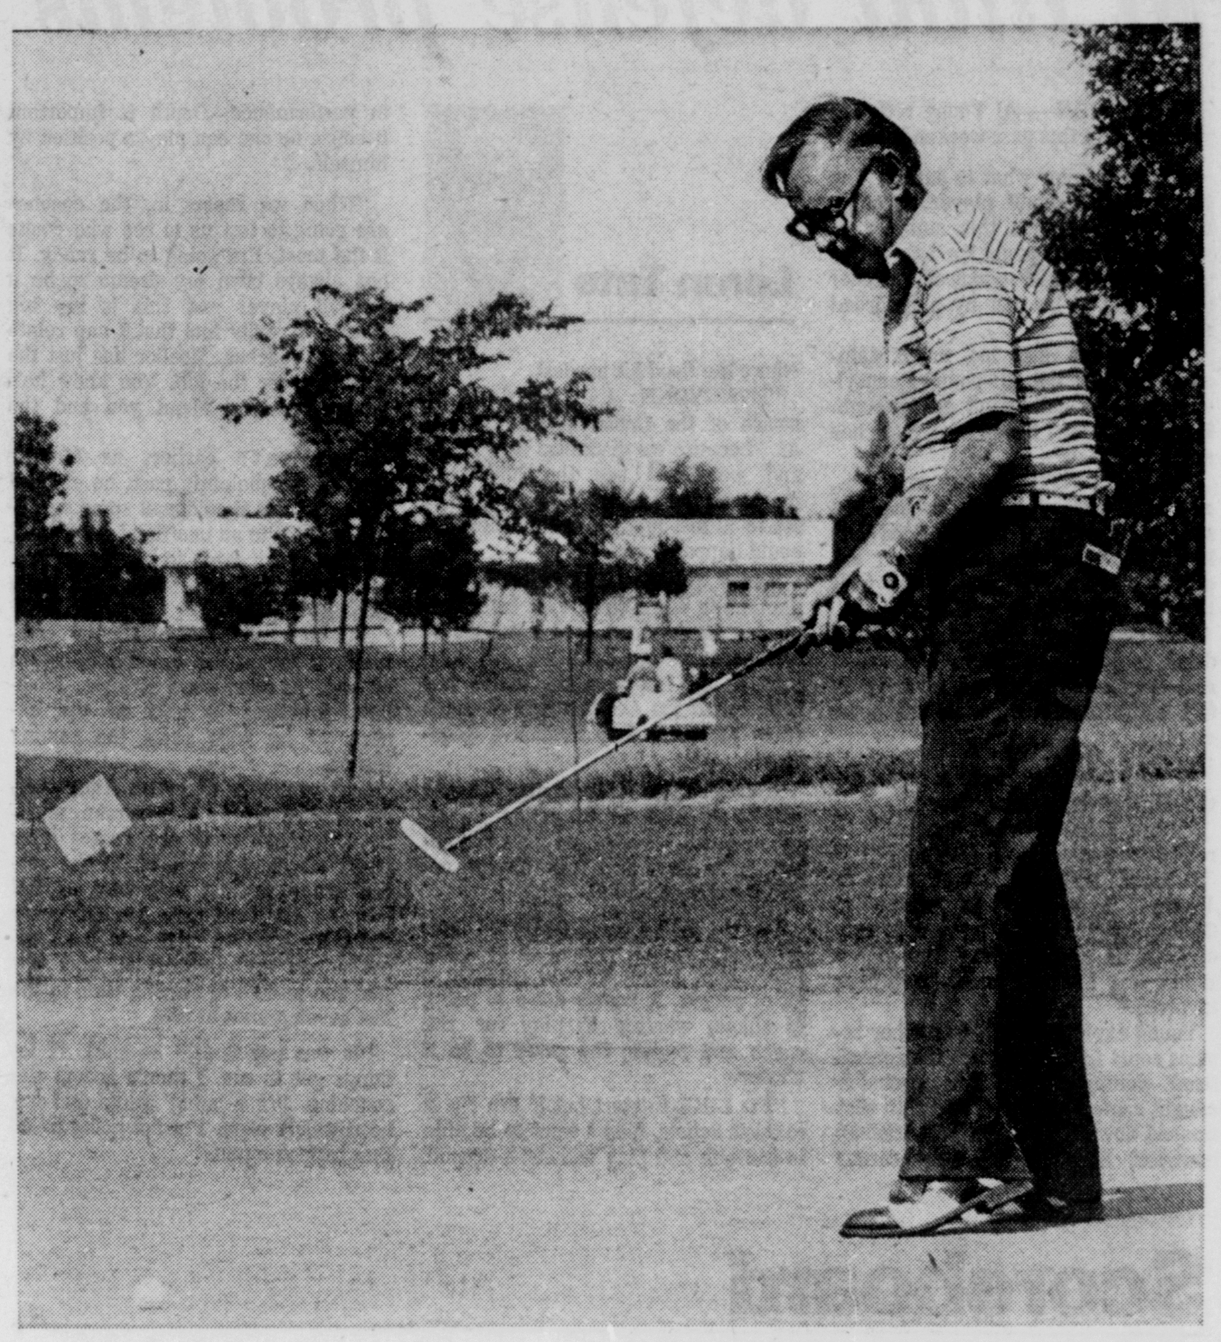

Ed Johnson of Ecko Products carded the lowest round of the day with an even par 72. His steady round included three birdies and three bogies with nine-hole totals of 37 and 35.

Johnson, who had a "one" handicap, won the same honor last year, in the tournament with a 76.

Following Johnson were Ralph Gander from Union Oil with 75, Bob Pemoller of Honeywell with 78, Fritz Fassnacht from Des Plaines Agency with 79, and Doug Erickson from Convenient Foods with 79.

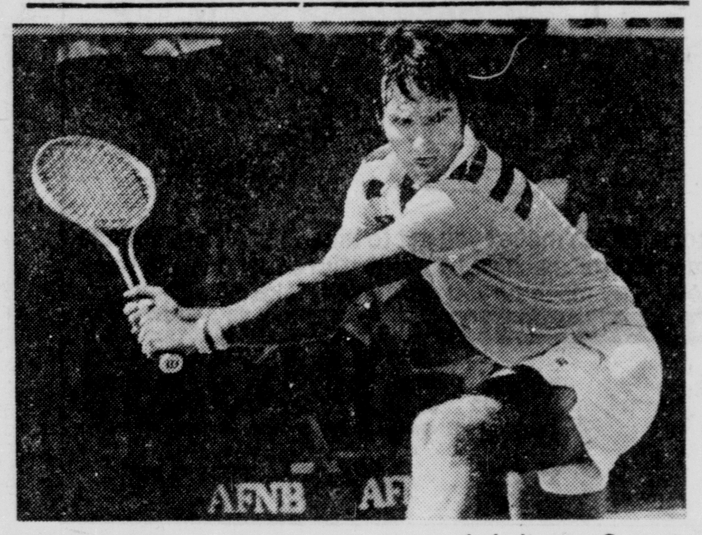

"I PLAYED AS well as I have in five years," Johnson said later. "I had three, three puts, but that was mostly because this is still a strange golf course to me.

"If there's anything that affected my game lately, it was watching Gary Hallberg at the Illinois Open last week. That slow swing of his helped me slow mine down," Johnson said.

PUTT AND TAKE. Ken Colberg of Barrington, representing the American Can Co. in the Paddock Golf Tournament, strokes his final putt on the ninth green Sunday.

TONGUE-TIED — That's what top-seeded Jimmy Connors was in Sunday's U.S. Clay Court Tennis Championship as Spain's Manuel Orantes defeated Connors 6-1, 6-3 for the title at Indianapolis, Ind. Connors was the defending champion.

Orantes outplays Connors for title

INDIANAPOLIS — Spain's Manuel Orantes easily overpowered top-seeded Jimmy Connors with stylish placements Sunday, 6-1, 6-3, to win the U.S. Clay Courts tennis championship for the third time.

Orantes, seeded second in the week-long tourney at the Indianapolis Racquet Club, needed less than 75 minutes to dispose of the defending champion — whom he also beat for the U.S. Open crown two years ago.

The victory was worth $20,000 to the 20-year-old Spaniard, who lost just two sets en route to the title. Connors pocketed $10,000.

Orantes, ranked sixth worldwide, took control of the match in ho and humid weather after the opening two games of the first set, winning the last five games and breaking Connors in the fourth and sixth games.

Jones wins Austrian Grand Prix

ZELTWEG, Austria — Australian Alan Jones drove his Shadow Sunday to the first major victory of his racing career and the first Grand Prix success of a Shadow car, winning the Austrian Formula 1 Grand Prix by 20 seconds over home favorite Niki Lauda.

The 30-year-old Jones, recovering from a poor start, powered his way up through the field and took the lead on the 44th lap when defending world champion James Hunt of Britain dropped out with a broken egine in his McLaren.

"I still cannot believe it," said Jones afterwards. "We had a lot of problems in practice, but in the race we used a special suspension and everything went fine."

Lauda, driving a Ferrari, crossed the finish line second, about 20 seconds behind Jones, but still stretched his lead in the world drivers' championship.

Jones completed the 199.39 miles in one hour, 37 minutes, 16.49 seconds to average 123.71 miles per hour.

Austin captures fourth golf crown

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. — Debbie Austin, getting into the habit of winning after nine frustrating winless years on the LPGA tournament, capped her fourth triumph of the year Sunday with a 35-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to capture the $100,000 Long Island Charity Classic by two strokes.

Austin, the third-round leader by two strokes at 8-under par, played "safe" golf through the front nine in miserable, rainy weather, shooting straight down the fairway and parring every hole. Spirited charges by rookie sensation Nancy Lopez and LPGA career money-leader Kathy Whitworth forced Austin into a more offensive game and she responded with a 1-under-par 71 for the final round.

Lopez, who finished second in her only two other prop tournaments, the U.S. Women's Open and the Women's European Open last week, finished in a tie for second again with a 70 while playing with the leader.

West division contenders stumble

From Herald Wire Services

Rookie Tim Corcoran pinch-hit a home run with one out in the eighth inning Sunday to stake rookie right-hander Dave Rozema to his 13th victory and give the host Detroit Tigers a 6-5 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

Corcoran's third home run and 18th hit of his brief major league career came one out after ace Tom Johnson entered the game and tagged the Twins' ace reliever with his fourth loss in 16 games.

Rozema, who has the best record of any rookie pitcher in baseball, scattered eight hits and won his sixth game in a row in raising his record to 13-4. It was his eighth straight complete game. He gave up four runs and five hits in the the fourth inning, with

AL baseball

Larry Hisle's 24th homer, a three-run shot, capping the rally.

ROY HOWELL'S bases-loaded single keyed a six-run eighth inning which lifted the host Toronto Blue Jays to a 6-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Loser Dennis Leonard, 12-10, was coasting along with a four-hit, 12-stikeout shutout into the eighth when Toronto scored all its runs. Back-to-back walks to Al Woods and Alan Ashby prior to Dave McKay's double accounted for the first Jays' run. Ernie Whitt, running for Ashby, then beat Frank White's throw home on Steve Staggs' grounder with the second run.

After Bob Bailor walked to load the bases, Larry Gura relieved Leonard and was greeted by Howell's single to right which brought home the tying and go-ahead runs. One out later, Otto Velez' sacrifice fly off Marty Pattin, the third Royals' pitcher of the inning, scored Bailor from third before Sam Ewing capped the six-run inning with an RBI double.

MICKEY RIVERS, Craig Nettles and Reggie Jackson drove in three runs apiece in leading the New York Yankees to their sixth victory in the last seven games, a 15-3 romp over the California Angels in New York.

Relief artist Dick Tidrow, now 7-4, made his first start since July 26, 1976 and allowed the Angels only two singles through the first six innings. He struck out four without issuing a walk. Rookie Gil Patterson pitched the final three innings and allowed the three Angels' runs in the seventh.

DWIGHT EVANS drove in four runs with a single and a homer and Carlton Fisk triggered a four-run second inning with a two-run homer to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 11-1 rout of the visiting Seattle Mariners.

The victory was the Red Sox' 14th in the last 15 games and their 10th in a row over the expansion Mariners, who have lost eight straight. The triumph enabled the Red Sox to maintain their 2½ game lead over Baltimore in the American League East.

ANDRES MORA blasted a three-run homer off Doc Medich in the sixth inning to spark the host Baltimore Orioles and Ross Grimsley to a 5-4 victory over the Oakland A's.

Mora, a 22-year-old Mexican outfielder used in only 40 games this season, boasts seven homers and 20 RBI for his 24 base hits. Twelve of Mora's hits have been for extra bases.

Oriole southpaw Grimsley, 11-6, retired 12 straight Oakland batters at one stretch, but was relieved by Tippy Martinez with one out in the ninth after yielding all six Oakland hits.

ANDRE THORNTON, who upped his slugging percentage to .563, drove in four runs with his 20th homer and a triple in the nightcap for a total of six RBI in a 12-4, 14-5 doubleheader sweep by the Cleveland Indians over the visiting Milwaukee Brewers.

The Indians, who have now swept four doubleheaders from the Brewers this season, slammed out nine runs and 10 hits in the fifth inning of the opener to give Wayne Garland his 10th victory against 13 losses.

Pirates complete sweep of Mets; St. Louis falls

From Herald Wire Services

Phil Garner crashed a two-run homer and winning pitcher John Candelaria contributed a triple and two RBI in his own behalf Sunday in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-3 victory over the New York Mets and a sweep of their five-game series.

Candelaria, 12-4, yielded six hits over the first 7 1/3 innings but needed relief help from Kent Tekulve. Nino Espinosa was charged with all the Pirates runs including four in the third to take the loss.

With one out in the third, Mario Mendoza singled and scored when Candelaria's fly ball to the center field wall fell off Lee Mazzilli's glove for a triple. Omar Moreno then hit a pop fly which dropped just in front of the onrushing Mazzilli for an RBI double before Garner belted his 15th homer into the left field seats.

STEVE ROGERS, with ninth inning relief from Joe Kerrigan, spaced five hits and Tony Perez drove in two runs to help the Montreal Expos snap a six-game losing streak with a 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in St. Louis.

Rogers raised his record to 13-11, striking out five, walking two and retiring 13 batters in a row before giving way to Kerrigan in the ninth. His only trouble came in the fourth inning, when Ken Reitz slugged his 14th homer after Jerry Mumphrey had walked. Kerrigan set the Cards down in order in the ninth.

LEFT HANDER Doug Rau pitched a four-hitter in outdueling knuckleballer Phil Niekro and paced the host Los Angeles Dodgers to a 1-0 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

Rau, notching his second shutout and fourth complete game of the season, improved his record to 13-3 while Niekro, who gave up only six hits, lost for the 15th time against 11 victories. When Niekro completed the first inning, he became the 55th pitcher in history to pitch in 3,000 innings.

PINCH-HITTER Darrell Evans hit a three-run homer and Willie McCovey added a two-run shot to power the San Francisco Giants to a 6-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds in the first game of a doubleheader at Candlestick Park.

Rookie left-hander Bob Knepper won his sixth game in 12 decisions by stopping the Reds on five hits. Cincinnati's run came in the fourth inning on a double by George Foster, a fielder's choice and another double by Ed Armbrister.

Cincinnati won the second game, 9-3

JOE NIEKRO tossed a five-hitter and Jose Cruz scored four runs in helping the Houston Astros to a 6-3 triumph over San Diego which snapped the Padres' five-game win streak.

Niekro, 8-4, blanked the Padres for six innings before surrendering a pair of homers to George Hendrick in the seventh and ninth innings. Dave Freisleben, who had won five in a row, was the loser to put his record at 5-6.

The Astros, leading 3-0 after six innings, insured the victory by working over reliever Rick Sawyer for three runs in the seventh.

Young expects to put 'end' to Illini defense problems

Loren Tate

CHAMPAIGN — Al Young returned to Johnstown this past weekend.

He didn't know what to expect. The junior Illini football player, who remained on campus this summer to work and train, sought for two weeks to telephone his widowed mother there, only to be met by a recorded message.

"There was just too much damage," said the 6-5, 215-pound Pennsylvanian. "The calls can't get through. I wrote her but I haven't talked to her since the flood."

LAST MONTH Johnstown, Pa., noted in history books, poems and songs as the site of an 1889 flood that killed 2,200 persons, was again engulfed by a rush of water that took lives of more than 50 residents.

An eight-hour downpour caused dams to burst, and a wall of water and debris estimated as high as 12 feet obliterated portions of the community.

"I used to swim in the area where the dams broke," noted Young.

"When I heard what happened, it really freaked me out. Stanley Ralph (UI teammate) and I were there in June. I decided to return to Champaign because I wanted to concentrate on weight lifting. I'm glad I didn't stay home. I might have been involved."

Young explained that his mother resides some five miles from the central flood damage area, but probably caught some of the mud and filth that washed down. One of his best friends, however, lives on the very corner where the flood hit hardest.

"EVERYONE IN Johnstown is aware of the floood situation," said Al, "because we discussed it in school and we could see the high-water marks on the buildings, in some cases 9½ to 10 feet high. Nobody believed it could happen again."

Young will view first-hand the new damage in a one-week visit before returning here ahead of the August 16 football reporting date. He will compete at an end position, which has been called the Achilles heel of coach Gary Moeller's new defensive alignment.

"Our coaches believe the defense will be as good as the ends," he acknowledged. "Everybody runs the option these days and they always option the defensive end.

"If one man breaks down, no matter who it is, the defense is no good. Personally, I feel we will surprise a lot of people. It comes down to being in shape, wanting to play for the coach and paying the price to be a winner.

"I'D LIKE to start but if I'm No. 2 to Scott Scholz, then I want to be able to come in and play without a dropoff in performance. Depth is important because no one can play a position by himself.

"When we report in, the coaches are going to test us to see who wants it the most. I'm going to be ready. It has always been my dream to be a football player and this is my big chance. I really feel that I can relate to these coaches. Moeller has just the right ego for the job. You know he's always thinking about you and the game."

Moments earlier, as Moeller strolled nonchalantly past, he glanced back over his shoulder at some sprinting athletes in an unofficial workout.

"Keep your arms in when you run, Al," he called out. "Don't let them flop like that."

YOUNG APPRECIATED the comment. It meant the coach was aware of him. Al mentioned it later. Moeller's presence is part of the excitement he feels about the coming season.

Last year was different. After playing extensively as a freshman, starting the majority of the games after Dean March was injured in the second game against Missouri, Al fell into the doghouse with the Blackman staff. He bounced back and forth between end and linebacker, and saw just one minute of playing time in the last seven games of 1976.

"It was my fault," he said. "I let things get to me. I didn't accept the coaching. It's a 'mind' game and my head wasn't right. I'm not going to let that happen again."

Rolling Meadows fall practices

Eight Rolling Meadows High School fall sports will begin practice Aug. 22.

Four boys sports including football, cross country, golf and soccer plus four girls sports including archery, cross country, tennis and volleyball begin practice.

Starting times and sites will be posted at the athletic registration table that will be part of the regular school registration during the week of Aug. 15-19.

All athletes should register on their assigned day. They will need an up-to-date physical examination card and a signed, parent permission card.

These cards are available in the school's athletic office. If there are any questions, call the Athletic Director Tom O'Driscoll at 259-9640.

Football equipment issue will be on Saturday, Aug. 20 with lettermen and seniors at 8:30 a.m., juniors 9:30 a.m., sophomores 10:30 a.m., and freshmen fo shoes only, 1 p.m.
